RESIGNATION OF V. MASSEY MADE PUBLIC

Canada's High Commissioner to Great Britain Retires From London Post

CORRESPONDENCE IS TABLED IN COMMONS

Resignation Has Been in Effect for Nearly Month, House Learns

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—The resignation of Hon. Vincent Massey from the post of High Commissioner to Great Britain, which was announced by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons today, has been in effect for nearly a month, according to the correspondence which the Premier tabled in the House.

The letter of resignation, written by Mr. Massey to the Hon. Mr. Bennett, states that the idea of the two with respect to the high commissioner's duties was at variance. It is also indicated that the Prime Minister's desire was to have at London "someone in close political association with the Government of the day."

Mr. Massey's first official communication to Mr. Bennett was dated August 7. Therein the former minister to Washington declares that he had waited until Mr. Bennett assumed office before approaching him with a view to ascertaining his instructions with respect to the London High Commissioner's appointment. An appointment was made at which Mr. Massey met Mr. Bennett in Ottawa, on August 13.

From the conversation between the two resulted Mr. Massey's resignation. This was conveyed by letter on the following day.

HIS RESIGNATION

Mr. Massey's letter of resignation reads as follows:

"My dear Prime Minister: I appreciate your courtesy in arranging my conversation of yesterday in answer to my letter requesting an expression of your wishes concerning my appointment to the High Commissioner's post in London. I left the Legation at Washington and accepted transfer to London on the understanding that the office of High Commissioner was an

BIG LINER SETS NEW RECORD ON HONOLULU TRIP

Empress of Japan Cuts Many Hours Off Run From Vancouver

FASTER VOYAGES ARE PREDICTED FOR SHIP

VANCOUVER, Sept. 9.—Setting a new record of four days, fifteen hours and fifty minutes for the 2,329 miles from Race Rocks, off Victoria, to Honolulu, the 26,000-ton liner, Empress of Japan, newest addition to the Canadian Pacific fleet of white Empresses and holder of two speed records on the Pacific, cut practically twenty-two hours from the best time between Vancouver and the Hawaiian playground, Captain E. A. Alkan, general superintendent of Canadian Pacific Steamships, announced here tonight.

She added the America-Honolulu blue ribbon to her recently established record of eight days, six hours and twenty-seven minutes from Yokohama to Victoria.

Captain Alkan's reckoning tonight gave the Empress an estimated average sea speed of 21.08 knots, a little better than the ship's average speed for the last voyage, the fact that this new liner has already established two new speed records on her first two trips on the Pacific not only justified the claim that she is the fastest ship on the Pacific but is remarkable for a new vessel. There is no doubt that she will show her best speed after her engines have had a better chance to work in.

Liberal Senators Re-elect Dandurand Leader of Chamber

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Hon. Raoul Dandurand will continue as leader of the Liberal members of the Senate, it was decided this morning at a party caucus. During the last Parliament, Senator Dandurand was Government leader of the Senate and minister without portfolio in the Mackenzie King Cabinet. The caucus was called by Senator Dandurand in the belief that his mandate as leader expired with the defeat of the King Government. He offered his resignation to his colleagues, who, however, refused to accept it. On a motion made by Sir Adam Aylesworth, Senator Dandurand was sustained in his capacity as leader of the Liberal party in the Upper Chamber.

EXECUTION OF RIOT LEADERS GIVEN DENIAL

Strict Martial Law Put Into Effect in Buenos Aires by Government

FORMER PRESIDENT NOW UNDER ARREST

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 9.—General Justo, newly appointed commander of the national military forces, late tonight denied rumors current earlier in the evening that two alleged leaders of last night's disturbances had been publicly executed in the Plaza de Mayo.

CORRESPONDENTS WARNED

Strict martial law was put into effect, with soldiers in war equipment around Government buildings, while foreign correspondents were warned, under penalty of summary expulsion, not to send any messages out of the country without the approval of the Government's censor. This applies also to cable, wireless, telephone and telegraph transmission.

It is understood a number of Yugoslavians are under arrest, including six deputies. Fifteen alleged enemies of the revolution were seized last night and condemned to be shot, but it is not known where the sentence was carried out.

PHYSICIAN ALSO HELD

Among those under arrest is the former President, Hipolito Yrigoyen, who has been ill in the infantry barracks at La Plata since he was ousted Saturday. After he resigned the Government informed him that he was free, but he was arrested after the outbreak. His personal physician, Dr. Meade, also is held. The newspaper La Nacion said tonight that the former President would be brought to Buenos Aires as soon as his health permitted. His condition today was reported weaker.

LEAGUE FINDS GERMANY HAS FOREIGN POLICY

Dr. Julius Curtius Protests Continuation of Armed Forces in Saar District

SHOWS INTEREST IN FORMER POSSESSIONS

GENEVA, Sept. 9.—Dr. Julius Curtius, German Foreign Minister, today gave the League of Nations Council two proofs that Germany has a vigorous foreign policy, despite the tangled political situation at home.

Dr. Curtius' moves were made during discussions of the Saar district, former German territory, now administered by the League of Nations, and Tanganyika, former German South African colony lost by the Great War, and administered by Great Britain under a mandate from the League of Nations.

Dr. Curtius announced to the council that he would have something to say later—presumably tomorrow when the League Assembly opens—about Great Britain's plan to unite Tanganyika and her adjacent colonies, Uganda and Kenya under common administrations as regards customs duties and fiscal management.

DEFENCE OF THE SAAR

A few minutes after the Tanganyika incident, the question of a defence force in the Saar district came before the council. This force consists of approximately 200 French and 50 Belgians. The council was considering a proposal for reduction of this defence force.

Dr. Curtius said that since the Rhineland was evacuated, he believed there was no longer any reason for the French to maintain any force at all in the Saar.

The council finished its immediate agenda today and will not meet again for several days until the League Assembly shall have developed further business for it to consider.

Railway Director to Visit Victoria

SIR CHARLES GORDON, Director of the Canadian Pacific Railway and president of the Bank of Montreal, will arrive here on September 24 with President E. W. Beatty and other directors of the rail company.

Twenty Are Injured in Police Raid

CALCUTTA, Sept. 9.—Thirty women were arrested today for taking part in a procession in honor of Mirabai, a British girl who forsook Christianity for Swara, and became a disciple of Mahatma Gandhi.

Before her conversion she was Madeline St. John. She is the daughter of a British admiral. Mirabai arrived in Calcutta this afternoon and immediately members of the Congress party arranged the procession in her honor. Police ordered the march to disperse and placed them under arrest when they refused. The crowd then stoned the police, one inspector and two European sergeants being injured.

After the disturbance police raided one of the buildings attached to Calcutta University. Ten students, including the son of a High Court judge, and ten persons not connected with the university, were injured during the raid.

SIX MEN KILLED WHEN LOCOMOTIVE EXPLODES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Six men were killed and eleven injured, three seriously, when a locomotive exploded in the roundhouse yard of the Reading Railroad here tonight.

The dead were John Biemiller, forty-six, and James Gordon, forty-seven, roundhouse foreman; John Kelly, thirty-eight, locomotive inspector; Frederick Smiley, forty-nine, engineer; Crawford Dunsenath, forty-five, and James P. Smith, forty-seven, carshop men.

The injured were carshop repair men.

For a few seconds after the explosion chunks of metal fell like rain about the yards and all other employees hurried to shelter. Some of the bodies were blown fifteen to twenty feet in the air and landed on a nearby embankment.

The engine was used in pushing heavy freight trains over grades.

VIOLENT STORM SWEEPS CENTRAL SASKATCHEWAN

REGINA, Sept. 9.—A tempest of wind and rain raked Central Saskatchewan early tonight, raising the fury of a torn-tornado before subsiding. Garages were torn from their moorings, sheds and granaries were dislodged and smaller buildings were lifted bodily by the force of the wind. The rain came down so heavily that it was impossible to see across the main street.

At Dsley, north of Regina, the storm dashed hundreds of windows panes and even shattered heavy plate glass in store fronts. Telephone communications were cut off and it was impossible to estimate the damage in outlying sections.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Five unmasked bandits held up the Ottawa Savings Bank today and escaped with more than $30,000. Bank officials announced the amount after they had checked the records.

Customs Duties Will Give Protection to Industries

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Indicates Liberals Will Insist on Lengthy Debate of Proposals, Thus Delaying Early Operation of Relief

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Parliament will be asked to vote $20,000,000 for the relief of unemployment, Premier Bennett announced in the House of Commons tonight. A resolution authorizing the expenditure of this sum will be placed on the order paper tomorrow.

A second resolution providing for amendments to the Customs Act and the application of the dumping clause to certain commodities will also be proceeded with.

The unemployment resolution, according to notice given by Mr. Bennett tonight, will be as follows:

"That it is expedient that a sum not exceeding $20,000,000 be appropriated and paid out of the consolidated revenue fund for the relief of unemployment in constructing, extending or improving public works and undertakings, railways, highways, etc., that will assist in providing useful and suitable work for the unemployed, all as set forth in a bill founded on this resolution."

The resolution referring to the amendments to the Customs Act follows: "Resolved, that it is expedient to amend the Customs Act in respect to the provisions relating to the fair market value for duty on goods imported and subject to ad valorem duty, and goods imported, the process of which are published or listed by the manufacturers, producers or persons acting on their behalf, the allowance of discounts, and the valuation of imports prejudicially or injuriously affecting Canadian producers."

FRENCH FLYERS TO START UPON TOUR SHORTLY

Coste and Bellonte Invited to Visit Canada During Good Will Flight

WELCOMED BY HOOVER IN AMERICAN CAPITAL

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The French transatlantic flyers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, returned today from Washington, where they were welcomed to America by President Hoover as final arrangements were being made for their good-will tour of the country.

ITINERARY ARRANGED

The itinerary is being made up by Casey Jones, president of the Curtiss Flying Service, and a member of the committee sponsoring the cities where the flyers would stop, but until the list was completed it was decided not to name any places. There are invitations from many cities in the country and from Canada, and as many stops will be made as is feasible.

The tour is expected to start by the early part of next week.

TRIBUTE IS PAID

On the way back from Washington today Coste circled low over the Newark airport and dropped flowers as a tribute to the memory of Major John A. Donaldson, American war ace and manager of the Jersey field, who was killed in a crash at Philadelphia on Sunday.

The Frenchmen landed at Curtiss airport in Valley Stream, on Long Island, and drove into town. Their only engagement tonight was a dinner tendered them by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America at the University Club.

NOTED FLYER IS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Capt. James A. Dickie Recently Flew Over Rockies in Record Time

WOMAN COMPANION IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

PORT WILLIAM, Sept. 9.—Captain James A. Dickie, thirty-eight, Canadian war flyer, died today when his plane swooped earthward and crumpled its nose in the rough forestland, about ten miles from the town of Port William, where he was flying with Captain Dickie at the time of the crash, lies in hospital here in a critical condition.

Cause of the accident, witnessed by only a few persons, could not immediately be determined. It is believed that Miss Swaine, who was married to Captain Dickie at the time of the crash, was flying with only a few persons, could not immediately be determined. While the Opposition was prepared to expedite the business of the House, it did not intend to acquiesce in any attempt to employ "steam roller tactics" on the part of the Premier to get legislation through, said the Liberal leader.

He had therefore indicated in his reply to the note that, being in ignorance of the nature of the

"If I have withheld the poor from their desire, or have caused the eyes of the widow to fail, or have eaten my morsel myself alone, and the fatherless hath not eaten thereof; if I have seen any perishing for lack of clothing, or any poor without covering; if his loins have not been warmed, and if I have lifted up my hand against the fatherless, then let mine axe fall from my shoulder blade and mine arm be broken from the bone."

BRITISH MOTOR MAGNATE Selects Permanent Home After Day's Stay Here

Arthur Spurrier, Director of Leyland Motors, Charmed With Victoria

CHARMED with the beauty of Victoria and environs, and the lure of its mild and equable climate, Arthur Spurrier, well-known director and co-founder of Leyland Motors, Limited, has decided to make his home here, he said yesterday, in the course of a brief visit of inspection to the Canadian depot of the firm.

Accompanied by Mrs. Spurrier, and Major Spurrier, manager of the Vancouver Leyland depot, Mr. Spurrier arrived in Victoria on Monday. That day he was taken for a drive on the Island Highway, by the Colwood Golf Club. Across the road from the links Mr. Spurrier saw a "For Sale" sign on an attractive residence. Inside of twenty-four hours he had taken title to the place.

At the time of his arrival in Victoria, as part of a general tour of inspection of the Canadian depots of the Leyland Motors, Limited, stretching from Montreal to Victoria, Mr. Spurrier had no intention of settling in Canada. The charm of Victoria, and the sight of a cosy home within twenty-four miles of the golf links proved an irresistible combination, so Mr. Spurrier, with true British directness, set about the purchase of "Dunmore," the residence that had attracted his attention. In June of 1931, Mr. and Mrs. Spurrier will take possession of their new home.

Progressive Leader Tells King Not to Group Opposition

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—The leader of the Opposition, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, was under a misapprehension this afternoon when he lumped the Progressive group in the House of Commons with Liberals as being necessarily opposed to the Government, declared Robert Gardiner, U.F.A., Acadia, leader of that party, during the debate at night. So far as the future was concerned, that group would treat the present Government as it had treated the late administration. If the Government introduced legislation calculated to benefit Canada as a whole and without conferring privileges on certain classes the Progressives would support that legislation.

FIND CAMP IN ARCTIC WHERE FRANKLIN DIED

Canadian Explorers Find Site Where Expedition Perished 83 Years Ago

BRINGING DATA OF EARLY ADVENTURERS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 9.—New-found Arctic records, garnered in a daring airplane journey along the top of the world, are being brought south by Major L. T. Burwash and Pilot W. E. Gilder. A message by radio to the Western Canada Airways today indicated that the exploring duo were at Coppermine, on Canada's north shore, after having reached the Magnetic Pole by plane.

FRANKLIN'S CAMP FOUND

Sites of two camps of the ill-fated Sir John Franklin expedition, which vanished in the North eighty-three years ago, were located in the Arctic today, according to a message from Pilot Gilbert to Edmonton. It was indicated that Major Burwash had found valuable data concerning the expedition of 130 men who died in the cold grip of the North.

Information gathered by Major Burwash, for many years an Arctic voyager in the interests of the Dominion, is being sent to the

SKEENA WILL BE LAUNCHED IN OCTOBER

Canadian Destroyer May Be Christened by Premier's Sister

WILL BE DELIVERED HERE NEXT SPRING

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—The launching of H.M.C.S. Skeena, at present under construction in Thornycroft's yards at Southampton, will probably take place on or about October 10, it was learned here today. The Skeena is the second of the two destroyers built for the Canadian Government this year. The first of them, Saguenay, was launched at Southampton on July 11 last.

Provided that the special session of the Canadian Parliament is over in sufficient time to enable the Prime Minister to attend the Imperial Conference, which opens in London on September 30, the likelihood is that Mr. Bennett will attend the launching. Probabilities are that the christening of the Skeena will be performed by the Prime Minister's sister, Miss Muldred Bennett.

The two destroyers, when delivered to Canada, some time next spring, will replace H.M.C.S. Champlain and H.M.C.S. Vancouver on the Atlantic and Pacific Coast stations respectively.

ASKS THAT LAW BE LIBERALLY INTERPRETED

Address of Counsel in Admiralty Actions Is Now in Progress

TRIALS OF FISHING VESSELS NEAR CLOSE

With all evidence heard in the Admiralty cases involved in the seizure of four American fishing boats the argument of counsel was commenced yesterday afternoon, and will be continued this morning. The argument of William Savage, of Vancouver, who is appearing before Mr. Justice Massey in Admiralty, is taking the form of a review of the international aspect of the situation presented.

Mr. Massey was appointed High Commissioner to Great Britain by order-in-council dated July 23, 1930.

PROGRESSIVE THOUGHT
Dr. A. F. Barton will speak in the Progressive Thought Temple, 935 Pandora Avenue, tonight, at 8 o'clock, on "Facts About Your Food."

The lecture will be followed by demonstrations of the diagnosis of bodily ailments from observations of the eyes.

CONSERVATIVES MEETING
The meeting of the Colwood Conservative Association will be held in the hall on September 12, at 8:30 o'clock. All members are asked to try and be present. Also new members will be welcomed.

SPECIFIED CASES
By a convention in 1818 this was altered, and while there was a specified area of Newfoundland and Labrador wherein fishing might be done inshore by the United States boats, and another area where curing and drying of the fish could be done, yet the general right to fish in all bays and harbors was reserved by the United States within the three-mile limit. This right was reserved, however, to enter for shelter, wood, repairs and water. This applied, Mr. Savage contended, to the Pacific Coast as well as to the Atlantic.

His contention was that these fishermen had not gone beyond the provisions of the customs law, nor the courtesies that were provided for under international law. He proceeded with his argument this morning, after which J. W. de la Farris, K.C., for the department, will present his side of the question. Just before the taking of evidence was concluded in the court yesterday afternoon, considerable time was spent, while experts applied instruments for locating the position of the fishing boat May.

McDonald, navigating officer on the ship, called as a witness on behalf of the American ships earlier in the day, placed the position of the May at a little over three miles from shore by making use of the directions recorded in the log of Captain J. H. Macdonald, the Canadian Fisheries Service. He said while Tow Hill and Rose Spit were selected points, he would not have selected Argonaut Hill as the third one owing to the fact that it was more or less flat on the top.

IN CROSS-EXAMINATION
When cross-examined, by Mr. Farris, witness admitted that he had passed there in a C.P.R. steamer. He admitted also that the man on the ground, like Capt. Shepherd, was the one that had to be depended upon with respect to the exact points that were taken.

When the more exact points which Capt. Shepherd had taken were ascertained from him, Capt. McDonald applied his instrument for finding the location, and placed it at three miles off shore.

Objection was taken to the placing of the instrument by Capt. Shepherd, who was asked to check upon it. The altered location when the point was arrived at showed a distance of two miles and three quarters off shore.

Urges Parliament to Speed Plans for Jobless Relief

Trades Congress Sends Wire to Premier Bennett Suggesting Four Measures to Alleviate Situation Throughout Canada

REGINA, Sept. 9.—Establishment of an unemployment insurance scheme. Eight-hour day and five-day week on all government work. Prohibition of the entry of immigrant labor into Canada. Adoption of recommendations discussed at the meeting of the Employment Service Council of Canada.

These four measures, all aimed at the alleviation of Canada's unemployment situation, were telegraphed tonight to the Government, now in session at Ottawa, by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in convention here.

In addition, the message strongly urged immediate action at this session of Parliament for the alleviation of the acute unemployment conditions existing throughout the country, and "recognizing the probable continuance of the unemployment problems," urges that steps be taken to effectively prevent a recurrence of the present situation.

MESSAGE TO PREMIER
The message, addressed to Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister, in full, urges:

1. The immediate putting into effect of the recommendations adopted by the Employment Service Council of Canada at its recent meeting.

2. The limitation of the hours of labor to not more than eight per day and five days per week on all government work.

3. Measures toward the establishment of a national scheme of unemployment insurance.

4. The strict enforcement and maintenance of regulations prohibiting the entry of immigrant labor into Canada.

It is signed by Tom Moore, of a church of his sudden decision to settle here within sight of the Colwood Golf Club.

Behind the routine visit of inspection of the Leyland depots in Canada is a story that is no small romance in itself, telling as it does of the amazing growth and expansion of a firm that was founded by Mr. Spurrier's father, a brother, and himself just thirty-five years ago, and which has now spread around the world.

Five men were originally employed by the shipyard firm, working in a small building at Leyland. Honorable mention was made in the product of the initial factory, and soon Leyland trucks and the Leyland trade mark began to make their presence felt in the automotive world. Now over 7,000 employees are on the payroll of the British firm, which has large workshops in London, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria, with plants and depots all over the globe.

Canadian depots are centred at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria, with plants and depots all over the globe.

RAILWAYS MEET FRUITGROWERS IN CONFERENCE

Traffic Executives Discuss Problems With Committee at Vernon

CONCESSIONS ARE MADE ON IMPORTANT POINTS

VERNON, Sept. 9.—In a broad gauge meeting of traffic officers of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. have acceded to four of the applications for concessions made at yesterday's conference in this city, between the railway representatives and the committee acting for the growers and shippers of fruit and vegetables. Four other applications were refused, and on two others decision was postponed. W. Sanford Evans presided as chairman of the conference.

Applications in response to which concessions were made are those for storage-in-transit privileges on apples, and for reduced storage-in-transit rates on onions; another for reduced rates on cut fruit for shipment from South Okanagan points to the Vernon processing plant; and to lower the export rate from Grand Forks to Pacific ports.

The carriers refused adjustment on the less-than-carload rate, but on the carload rates from Grand Forks they promised to figure out a rate on the same relative basis as now applies between Okanagan and main line points, and then advise the shippers.

Decision was deferred on the application for cancellation of the present $1.75 dockage charge at Okanagan Lake carlins. The traffic officers also desire to discuss their operating departments before giving a decision on the application for an assembly rate from Napa to Nelson.

NANAIMO BOARD JOINS COUNCIL IN SEEKING MAIL SERVICE BY AIR

NANAIMO, Sept. 9.—Assurance was given by the Board of Trade at its meeting tonight of the operation of the air mail service between the city and Vancouver.

The Board of Trade and communication committee, reported he had been investigating the possibility of obtaining a mail subsidy, and did not believe such could be secured until such time as Vancouver had an air mail service connecting with Seattle or Portland, B.C.

Mr. Mitchell stated he would address the Vancouver Board of Trade later in the month and he was asked to point out to that body the advantages to be derived by Nanaimo and the upper part of Vancouver Island through the establishment of such service. He will also discuss the case of Alberca Island in Vancouver and Victoria in direct competition to the Vancouver Island product.

WILL INVESTIGATE POSSIBILITIES OF FOX BREEDING HERE

With the object of investigating the possibilities of establishing a large fur farm on Vancouver Island, a Locks, publisher, Canadian fur farmer, will shortly arrive in Victoria.

Mr. Locks was one of those who, in the early days of the industry, established the well-known Willow Hill Fox Farm, of Summerside, P.E.I., and his farm is still operating with fine results.

It was during the course of last year that Mr. Locke became interested in breeding of cross-bred foxes and purchased animals for this purpose from Vancouver Island.

resolutions, he could not give the Prime Minister an assurance of unanimous consent inasmuch as a number of his colleagues, and members of the Progressive group, would desire to examine them and so frame their attitude and course of action.

The rules of the House provide that forty-eight hours be given before any resolutions could be proceeded with. The Prime Minister knew this, he added. Yet today's action was taken, and no indication had been given of what business would be proceeded with to-morrow. He could not understand why this should be so, unless it was that the resolutions contained something which Mr. Bennett did not wish to have disclosed at this time.

LIBERALS CAUSE DELAY
The Government, said the Prime Minister, was in the hands of the House, and he was sure the country would judge. The leader of the opposition, had indicated his unwillingness to proceed, so there being very little business, the House would adjourn, following a brief session tomorrow, until the next day.

When the Prime Minister sent the note, said Mr. Mackenzie King, he had asked him to assent to something that was wholly blank. He had known the facts as they had now been indicated, he might have given the Prime Minister a different answer. If Mr. Bennett would present copies of the resolutions to himself, to Mr. Garfield, leader of the Progressives, they would endeavor to see if it was not possible to advance matters tomorrow.

FAIRNESS ASSURED
"But I would say," he continued, "that we intend to have an opportunity to give thought and study to these matters, particularly when they involve the expenditure of $200,000."

"I am sure the House will acquiesce in steam rolling," said Mr. Bennett. The rules of the House prevented, and he had no desire to adopt such methods. His wish was that the business of the House be disposed of. He assured Mr. Mackenzie King that copies of the resolutions should be furnished at once. So long as he occupied the position of Prime Minister there would be no disposition on his part to steam roll legislation through the House. The Premier repeated. The incident passed over and the House then rose.

LITTLE CHURCH WAS SCENE OF FINAL TRIBUTE

Funeral Service Held Over Bodies of Andree and Strindberg

FRANKEL'S SKELETON ASSUMED TO BE FOUND

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 9.—Beneath half-masted flags, a reverent crowd gathered in and around the little Tromsoe church yesterday during funeral services for Solomon Augustus Andree and Nils Strindberg, whose bodies recently were brought from an icy grave on White Island, where they died thirty-three years ago.

After a hymn by a mixed choir, Dean Nilsen delivered a moving sermon, in the course of which he recalled that two years ago memorial services were held in the same church for Roald Amundsen.

RELATIVES PRESENT
The relatives of Andree and Strindberg, representatives of the Swedish-Norwegian Commission, the crew of the sealer Braving, which discovered the bodies, and members of Dr. Gunnar Horn's expedition attended the services. Petty officers and sailors from warships in the harbor paraded to the church in a final tribute.

The coffins were carried by Norwegian sailors to the southern corridor of the church, which will be used as a provisional crypt. After arrival of the sealer Lajbom with the body of Knute Frankel, all three bodies will be carried from the church to the cruiser Svensund by Swedish sailors.

A party of journalists aboard the sealer reported the finding of a skeleton, assumed to be that of Frankel, third member of Andree's expedition, near the spot where the bodies of Andree and Strindberg previously were discovered.

WORK ON CANADIAN NATIONAL PIER MAY COMMENCE SHORTLY

VANCOUVER, Sept. 9.—Reconstruction of the Canadian National Pier, foot of Main Street, which was burned recently, may be started within two weeks.

This is reported following the announcement that P. C. Keeler, Pacific Coast manager of the C.N.S. & L., will leave next week for Montreal to discuss Pacific Coast steamship matters with Eastern officials.

It is believed that at this conference will be decided the type of pier which will replace the burned structure and it is reported that within two weeks reconstruction will be started.

TWENTY MEN FIGHT FIRE ON MAINLAND

Twenty men were fighting a fire in thirty acres of slash territory near Hollyburn Ridge, north of West Vancouver, yesterday, according to B.C. Forest Service reports. Although snags and rotten timber were burning fiercely late in the evening, it was anticipated that the blaze would be under control by daybreak.

Lightning on Monday evening started small fires at Ruby Creek, Mission, Port Haney and points along the Chilliwack River. In each case flames were prevented from spreading by fire patrolmen.

Instant Relief From Bunions—Soft Corns

No sensible person will continue to suffer from those intense, agonizing, throbbing bunions pains when the new powerful, penetrating, yet harmless antiseptic Emerald Oil can readily be obtained at any well-stocked drug store.

Apply a few drops over the inflamed swollen joint and see how speedily the pain disappears. A few more applications and the swelling is often reduced to normal.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that soft corns seem to shrivel right up and drop off. (Adv.)

SHIPERS URGE MORE CHANGES
Okanagan Growers Ask Railways to Further Reduce Recent Concessions

VERNON, Sept. 9.—Fruit and vegetable shippers of the Okanagan district today put forward a series of requests, which they believe will tend to better the industry if favorably acted upon, before a joint meeting of Provincial Government and railway representatives and members of the Okanagan Freight Rate Committee. The requests did not touch upon matters pending ready before the Railway Commission.

The meeting was called by Sanford Evans, Provincial Fruit Commissioner, who acted as chairman.

SERIES OF REQUESTS
Among adjustments sought by the shippers, and which were taken under consideration by the railway representatives, who promised an early reply, were reduction of the rate on onions for storage in transit; abolition of the $1.75 dockage charge at Sumnerland, Naramata, Okanagan Centre, and other lake points; that storage rates on apples in transit be put upon a parity with rates charged by United States railways; that the small car minimum of 26,000 pounds, in force until August 31, be made a permanent instead of an annual concession; and that reduced rates be allowed on fruit and vegetable shipped out of Grand Forks and Kootenay. In connection with the last request, it was especially asked that reduced rates be given to prairie points west of Medicine Hat, Alta.

NOT SATISFIED
Disatisfaction was expressed that a rate reduction on export shipments out of Vancouver had not been more generous. In this connection E. J. Chambers, president of the Associated Growers, said he had been given to understand that the rate to all export countries would have been reduced, but he claimed that the actual reductions given did not carry out the understanding, which, he said, he could back with correspondence.

In connection with the request for a reduction of storage rate on apples in transit, protest was made against the charge of $3 for diversion in transit.

The feature that probably attracted more attention than anything else was the exhibit of Pat Hardy, who was a member of the Byrd expedition to the North Pole. Hardy has with him two savage timber wolves which he brought from the Arctic region, and it is claimed that he is the only man known to be able to keep these vicious animals under control.

No fewer than 465 delegates of the Floral Telegraph Delivery Association, who have recently been in convention in San Francisco, visited Victoria yesterday and were taken for an hour's sightseeing drive, when they expressed admiration for the well-kept gardens of this city.

A party of Victoria florists, headed by Lawrence Woodward, met the visitors at the Seattle boat. The delegates, who were led by T. Luke, of Portland, director of the Western District of the Floral Telegraph Delivery Association, and J. Brown, Jr., of Vancouver, head of the British Columbia unit, were loud in their praises of the beautiful views afforded by the trip. After leaving the boat each of the ladies was presented with a bouquet by the local members. The party left for Vancouver in the afternoon.

COFFEE AND HAMBURG IS TOO MUCH--GEORGE SEEKS LIFE PARTNER

George O. Strand, of Las Cruces, New Mexico, is fed up. Eight months on a diet of coffee and hamburger is too much for the amorous George, who is now seeking a life's partner with whom to share his misery. He has written to Mayor Anson, of Victoria, and this is what he wrote:

"I am unable to make a living with two trades and a hamburger stand. I am seeking a life mate to aid me make a living. Any woman that has enough means to pay my fair out of city and can feed me for a week to gain my strength so I will be fit for work, can have me. Have lived about eight months on coffee and hamburger."

He signs himself, "yours sincerely, George O. Strand." His home address is a very harmonious one, 128 East Organ Street.

The Mayor intimates he is willing to send on the applications, but he hopes there will be no rush of applicants.

The right type of J.M. Lining Prevents Grabbing brakes. Do your brakes ever "grab" your car as if it had run into a brick wall—slip a you release the pressure a trifle—and then grab again? Wrong lining is a likely reason. Your brakes were designed for a definite type of lining. Only that correct lining will keep them operating smoothly. That is the reason Johns-Manville makes several different kinds of brake linings, each lining designed for a definite type of car. When your brakes grab, drive in where you see this sign.

This sign identifies all Johns-Manville Brake Service Stations. At all of them you'll find a brake specialist. His expert knowledge is supported by the Johns-Manville Research Department, which was established to make an exact study of operating conditions for every type of brake equipment on every type of motor vehicle. Look for the sign when your brakes need attention. It is a definite guarantee of long-wearing, smooth-gripping, reliable brakes. 107

BETTER TIMES AHEAD

When one so admirably informed on economic conditions in the Dominion speaks so optimistically about the immediate future as Mr. E. W. Beatty has done at Winnipeg there is good cause for everyone to take heart of grace. Mr. Beatty is in a position to know. The vast organization he controls and directs is in touch with practically every ramification of the business and industrial life of the people. His president is, therefore, in a fortunate position to gauge the present and estimate the future. Cautious confidence is the keynote of what he has to say. His views will have a heartening effect throughout the Dominion.

Mr. Beatty believes manufacturing will become more active during the Fall months. The public works to be started by the Federal Government and by the Provincial Governments will not only give a new impetus to employment but will lead to a growing demand for commodities which enter into their construction. The C.P.R. is to be a big factor in promoting industrial development, and to lay plans towards this end is the chief purpose of Mr. Beatty's present trip through the country. The company, where possible, is to advance its programme of construction. It anticipates, as well, that the increase in the tonnage of grain on the move will have an appreciably beneficial effect on employment conditions.

It is significant that Mr. Beatty, on the basis of the very exhaustive knowledge of conditions that is at his command, should express the opinion that the year 1931 will be more prosperous for Canada than either 1929 or 1930. The position of industry is bound to be improved by the legislation of the present emergency session of Parliament. Unemployment will be reduced, and consequently there will be a better outlook all around. Mr. Beatty has a message of cheer for all the people. In making his prognostications, as true it is undoubted that the Canadian Pacific Railway will play a prominent part, as it always has done in the past, to promote development and maintain economic stability throughout the country.

NEW ZEALAND'S ATTITUDE

Mr. Forbes, the Prime Minister of New Zealand, goes to the Imperial Conference with the full intention of doing everything in his power to bring about closer consultation and co-operation between the different parts of the Empire. New Zealand has no complaints and no demands to make. "We are convinced," he says, "that the welfare, safety and prosperity of every portion of the British Commonwealth now depend to a very material extent upon its continuation as a close association of partner Governments, the policy of which should be decided after continuous consultation."

The attitude of Mr. Forbes on the question of Imperial defence is one that should have weight in the councils of the Imperial Conference. New Zealand, while welcoming a progressive common reduction in the heavy burden of national armaments does not believe the day has yet arrived when it is possible to ignore the necessity of naval defence. Moreover, the opinion of that Dominion has not altered on the necessity of the Singapore naval base being completed. Mr. Forbes admits his country should be guided by the experience and necessities of the United Kingdom in the question of defence, but it does not appear that he wholly subscribes to the situation that has arisen as an outcome of the London Naval Conference. This is a subject that should occupy a foremost place in the discussions of the Imperial Conference.

The economic side of the coming Conference interests New Zealand because that country is so largely dependent on the markets of the United Kingdom. Mr. Forbes says his Dominion will assist any movement which promises to improve the economic prosperity of the United Kingdom, but he intimates that the fiscal system of the United Kingdom is a matter entirely for the consideration of Great Britain's own people and Government. New Zealand is devoted to the principles of inter-Imperial unity, economically and otherwise, and the desire to foster trade within the Empire.

INTENSIFIED SENSE APPEAL

"Now set the bells and stretch the nostrils wide," for the "smellies" are on the way. A great effort will be made to install the apparatus for the Christmas season. In all scientific matters precision is important. It is as well to fix in the mind the words in which the newly-granted patent in America announces to the world its latest threat. What has been invented is nothing less than "an apparatus for supplying an olfactory impression in conjunction with a motion picture impression."

Well may the American press hail the new device with the cry: "Perfumed Pictures Permeate Programme," for anyone who pauses to enumerate to himself how many things there are in the world that smell strongly, and reflects that whatever exists can be filmed, will realize that life is to be lived more intensely than before. Every branch of a great industry will profit. The favorite drama of high life in great and splendid halls will take on a new lease of life when Lucullan banquets can be smelled, even if the day is still distant when a further invention makes the illusion of the film really complete by providing food for the audience. A popular class of film, that dealing with wild animals, has not found taking apparatus of much advantage. With a careful selection of wild animals, and a little skill in putting the audience downwind, unforgettable experiences should be developed.

Each new invention creates a new profession. Parents who hitherto have paid little heed to their children's power of smell will do well to consider whether the profession of the sniffer is not bound to grow. The film is being used more and more for education, both historical and geographical. While the ordinary producer will be able to manage the burning cakes in the Alfred scene and the seaship horses in the tale of the Norman Conquest, he will want help in a good many passages of history. Still more skilled will be the blender's art who uses smells symbolically. We may expect the "close-ups" and "fade-outs" of happy lovers to be accompanied by the scent of violets, of carnations, even of roses. It will be a mark of talent in the Director of Olfaction, whose name will be added to the already considerable list of memorable persons with whom a film begins, to introduce, quite artistically, his onion smell just before the most emotional passages. If the "smellies" will be staged in a kitchen-garden, if the silent films, and megaphone breaks out among the big noses of the profession, a reckless race will begin to see who can produce, regardless of cost, the most vivid, arresting and seductive odor.

MRS. SUSAN PHIPPS

A resident of nearly four decades, who throughout her time here engaged largely and enthusiastically in philanthropic activities, has gone to her rest in the passing of Mrs. Susan Phipps. She was eighty-six years old, and to the end of the doing good and seeking to alleviate the sufferings and sorrows of others dominated her life. The Jubilee Hospital, the Red Cross Society, the Victorian Order of Nurses and many other benevolent institutions experienced her worth and enthusiasm to their advantage. She was animated by a high morality which took the form of practical deeds. Her disposition and fine characteristics endeared her to all who knew her. Such a gentle life, fashioned on the basis of spiritual instincts, well deserved to have reached such a ripe old age. Deep sympathy will go out to her surviving children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren in the loss of one who set such a noble example of service to her fellow.

A correspondent of The London Times notes that astronomers of precision are now setting up international committees to make observations of the minor planet Eros, which comes into human ken in his swaying course early next year. This planet has a very elliptic orbit relative to the sun. On rare occasions he comes within a close distance of the earth, in fact, only seventy times farther away than the moon, and it is this proximity which enables astronomers to make observations of an accurate character as can be made, humanly speaking, of the dimensions of the solar system. Exact astronomy, and that is the kind of more value, is therefore much concerned about the return of Eros. Many photographic plates will be made of his progress while he swims within human ken.

LADY TWILIGHT

Our lady of the twilight,
She hath such gentle hands,
So lovely are the gifts she brings
From out the sunset-lands,
So bountiful, so merciful,
So sweet of song is she,
And over all the world she draws
Her cloak of charity.
—Alfred Noyes in "Our Lady of the Twilight."

HOPE IN FAILURE

Though thou hast failed and art fallen, despair not because of defeat.
Though lost for awhile be thy heaven and weary of earth be thy feet,
For all will be beauty about thee hereafter through sorrowful years.
And loveliness the dew for thy chilling and ruby thy heart-drip of tears.

The eyes that had gazed from afar on a beauty that blinded the eyes
Shall call forth its image forever, its shadow in alien skies.
The heart that had striven to beat in the heart of the Mighty too soon
Shall still of that beating remember some errand and faltering tune.

For thou hast but fallen to gather the last of the secrets of power;
The beauty that breathes in thy spirit shall shape of thy sorrow a flower,
The pale bud of pity shall open the bloom of its tenderest rays.
The heart of whose shining is bright with the light of the Ancient of Days.
—A. E.

The desiring to be remembered when we are dead is to so little purpose that it is fit men should, they generally are, be disappointed in it. Nevertheless, the desire of leaving a good name behind us is so honorable to ourselves, and so useful to the world, that good sense must not be heard against it.—Lord Halifax.

Books are not absolutely dead things, but do contain a potency of life in them to be as active as that soul was whose progeny they are; nay, they do preserve as in a vial the purest efficacy and extraction of that living intellect that bred them.—John Milton.

SMALL HOSPITALS

Sir,—We are sure that many in Victoria will agree with Dr. Hutchinson on his limitation of hospitals.
In smaller units, the nurses would be better trained, and the patients receive greater attention. Especially does this apply to nerve and mental work, where in large cities small psychiatric hospitals could work much good. It was, no doubt, more from want of thought than from any lack of Government investment in the many areas at Esquimalt there to congregate the many from all over the province in huge buildings, costing millions of dollars, and the end of doing good and seeking to alleviate the sufferings and sorrows of others dominated her life. The Jubilee Hospital, the Red Cross Society, the Victorian Order of Nurses and many other benevolent institutions experienced her worth and enthusiasm to their advantage. She was animated by a high morality which took the form of practical deeds. Her dis-

WOULD-BE SETTLERS

Sir,—I and my children are located in Toronto, but it is essential that we live near the sea on account of my son's health, and we are thinking of migrating to Victoria Vancouver Island, as we think the climate will be just what we want, but the difficulty is this—we do not know whether we shall be able to find employment.

I am the widow of an officer in the merchant service, aged thirty-three, who was killed in the early days of the war, leaving me with three small children, the eldest four. I immediately started out to earn my living, but have been unsuccessful in keeping them in comfort and giving them a college education.
Three years ago I came to Toronto and have been ever since secretary to a financial house, where I earn a very good salary.
My son is a brilliant frater,
the boy (eleven) has spent a year with the Bell Telephone Company as draftsman, but owing to reduction of staffs he was unemployed since July. Also, as he commenced with asthma last winter, we decided that he could not again spend a winter in Toronto. He is a very good athlete and is physically perfect, but he needs sea air on account of asthmatic tendencies, being perfectly well near the sea. He would like an outdoor occupation.

We therefore decided that he and his sister would come to Vancouver Island and try to find employment, preferably on the land, or outdoor,
and then next Spring I and the youngest girl will come if there is a chance of employment.

I am a capable stenographer and bookkeeper and will be willing to start with a salary until I prove my worth, or if I cannot find employment of that nature I will work as housekeeper on a farm in order to earn my living. My children will not be too long to find employment. The boy and girl would both work on a farm together. They are at present fruit picking on the Niagara River and have been very much. They are both well educated and of good character and willing to do their best for anyone who will guarantee them employment. If they get placed out on farms we shall ultimately apply for a grant of land.

We want to settle down and have always liked the idea of Vancouver Island as we have read so much of it and believe it to be a fine place, but we do not want to leave our coming on chance. I can keep the two of them for some weeks whilst they settled, but we sometimes hear that British Columbia is more unemployment than Ontario, so wish to use a little caution before embarking on such an enterprise.

Any reader who could give me information will be gratefully thankful.

L. WILLIAMS,
27 Amroth Avenue, Toronto, Ont.,
September 5, 1930.

MOUNT DOUGLAS PARK

Sir,—In the last few days I have seen many references in the daily press to Mount Douglas Park.
Gravel, firewood, etc., etc., etc.
All of these articles have been written in a somewhat veiled manner, but all containing insinuations of "deep dark doings."

I have been chairman of the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee for the past four years and little has been done at Mount Douglas Park which was not authorized by the beaches and parks committee. It is true that gravel from Mount Douglas Park with the consent of the city of Victoria, has been used for the new bridge, but two years ago a wooden bridge in the park, which was dangerous to traffic, we removed and we built a concrete culvert at a cost of $2,000, and also paid a Victoria firm some $1,500 extra to fill in with gravel taken from the park; this at no cost to the city of Victoria.

We have also had considerable unauthorized assistance in the taking of gravel. We even went so far as to place a man on watch all night for a considerable time in an endeavor to check the unauthorized removal of gravel.
By an arrangement entered into between the city of Victoria and the city having one key and Saanich
the other, and I believe, Mr. Editor, the parks committee has taken entirely into consideration the fact that a certain gentleman, who resides on a farm, has been found to have been taking gravel from the park, and has now found that he cannot repeat his performance.

In regard to the road—I am informed that a plan has been prepared in accordance with instructions given by the beaches and parks committee.

THE COLONIST IN NEW YORK

parks committee, who requested the city and the beaches engineers to obtain information and prepare a plan. I, myself, have not seen it yet, nor do I think has any member of the committee, and if any probe is necessary it would seem to me it should include, as to who furnished the information which is being used, apparently in an endeavor to stir up unnecessary strife between the two municipalities.

Mount Douglas Park covers 366 acres. In all the time it has been cleared for the use of the public, and while I have been chairman, only a few trees have been removed and these by order of the committee as they were dangerous, and the wood was given to the person who cut the trees for his trouble in removing the same.
The road diversion was suggested to make the park more useable and safe for children, and for the reason this action has been seized upon as if the beaches and parks committee was a collection of brigands.

In conclusion, I again repeat that nothing has been done in Mount Douglas Park, to the best of my knowledge, that was not authorized by the parks committee, which consists of three city aldermen and the mayor, three Saanich councillors and the reeve.

WILLIAM CROUCH,
Chairman, Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

Sir,—For the Federal Government to deal intelligently with the question of unemployment in Victoria and district, it is necessary that there should be a census of the unemployed. This should show both male and female by occupation, and there are to be constructive ways and means to deal with the problem.

I objected to Mayor Anson's informing the Federal Department of Labor that there were but 800 unemployed in this municipality. In fact, I have no opinion there are at least 2,000 persons seeking employment.

It is desirable that all in search of employment should register at once so that the desired total may be forwarded to Ottawa. The total would be of assistance to both Mr.
D. B. Plunkett and Mr. C. H. Dickie in making representations to the Federal Government.

I desire to thank Mayor Anson and the reeve of the nearby municipalities for the courtesy and kind assistance they have shown our association in discussing this question of unemployment.

We are holding another mass meeting on Wednesday morning on Langley Street, opposite the Government Employment Bureau, at 10 o'clock, when it is hoped some constructive suggestions will be framed for submission to the municipal authorities.

WALTER INWARD,
Chairman, Unemployed Association of Vancouver Island.
1446 Langley Street, Victoria, B.C.,

Adelaide's Waterfront
Strike Virtually Ends

ADELAIDE, South Australia, Sept. 9.—Adelaide's waterfront strike, which started last week against the employment of volunteer laborers at the docks, came virtually to an end today, according to a statement made by Premier Lionel Hill.

The dockers, carters and drivers had been involved. The passage of the bill to deal with the emergency situation helped considerably in the settlement.

PART VIII

Annexation Movement Finds Some Support on Vancouver Island—The Colonist Advocates Confederation as Offset to Propaganda

HARDLY had the sale of the Rupert territory become known, when a rumor spread through the colony that Seward proposed to annex British Columbia and Vancouver Island in liquidation of the Alaska claims. Though subsequently proved to be groundless, the rumor stirred up a great deal of feeling, and gave impetus to the annexation movement on the Island. Many people, says the Colonist, were lo-wed in expression of their preference for the Stars and Stripes. The sentiment was heard on every street corner, at the theatre, in business circles, and at social gatherings. The idea was growing and spreading daily that to become part of the "Universal Yankee Nation" was the colony's inevitable destiny.

It was not surprising that the influence of the home Government was alienating the affections of the colonists. It was natural for them to look across the sea and contrast their situation with that of the States and territories about them. There they saw the Government fostering and encouraging the growth of all sections. Sitka had not been a week in its possession, and already an expedition was on its way from Washington to explore the country thoroughly and report on its possibilities and resources. While in British Columbia there was no assistance given to exploration or development. Was it any wonder asks The Colonist, that the transfer of the colony to the United States would be hailed with satisfaction by many? It was a feeling greatly to be regretted, but too severe a test had been put on the loyalty of the people and their patience and means were exhausted.

While The Colonist refused to believe in the rumor, it realized that the proposed transfer might advantageously for the colony, especially Vancouver Island. It would make Victoria the half-way house between Sitka and San Francisco.
Its harbor would be the rendezvous of the whaling fleet. The growth of the port would speedily prosper.

Is annexation the only path? asks the Victoria newspaper.
In a stirring editorial on April 29. Many of the colonists were coming to regard the attempt to establish British institutions on the Pacific Coast as a failure, and since no change could be for the worse, they would become union with the United States. But there was another course open—a course that would save the country from ruin, and preserve its loyalty at the same time. The colony must have immediate Confederation, with the assumption of its debt by the Federal Government, the dismissal of its expensive staff of officials, and the substitution of a cheap form of local government, and the guarantee of a loan through British territory to connect with the Grand Trunk of Canada.

Once let it be known that British Columbia had joined the Eastern Provinces, that colonial government had been obtained, and that Great Britain had sufficient faith in the colony's future to endorse its paper, then would public confidence renew and money pour in from all quarters. But if the present policy were continued it would not be long before the Pacific colony was found knocking at the door of the White House for admission.

Press Conference

GIVES IMPRESSIONS OF PERSONALITIES

"Canada within the lifetime of some of the children who are now playing in our streets will be the dominant partner in the British Commonwealth of Nations," prophesied B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Victoria Daily Times and representative of the British Columbia press at the Imperial Press Conference, in the concluding part of his delightful talk to the Women's Canadian Club, the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon. His subject, "Some Personalities at the Imperial Press Conference," was treated in a popular manner and, in sketching his portraits, Mr. Nicholas also gave an interesting outline of the conference discussions and the part played by Canada's representatives in these. From his observations during and after the conference, he drew the conclusion quoted above, that Canada was destined to be the dominant partner in the Commonwealth.

Among the outstanding personalities Ramsey MacDonald, Lloyd George and Stanley Baldwin, each of whom had addressed the gathering, easily ranked first. Mr. Baldwin impressing the gathering the most favorably of all.

The chairman of the conference was Major John Astor, brother of Viscount Astor, whose wife, Lady Nancy Astor, represents Plymouth in the House of Commons. Major Astor, said Mr. Nicholas, showed a high sense of responsibility, not only in his conducting of the conference, but also by his faithful attendance at every function held during the conference. His wife, a daughter of the Earl of Minto, showed a particularly warm spot for the Canadian delegates.

Prominent British representatives included Lord Burnham, Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Ralston, Lord
Riddell, owner of The New of the World; Sir Robert Bruce Lord
Grey, one-time British Foreign Secretary, and others.

YOUTHFULNESS

"What impressed me with these Old Countrymen was their youthfulness," said Mr. Nicholas, who attributed this to the easy way in which these men of heavy responsibilities spent their weekends, in their country recreations, and, perhaps also to the fine food of England. In this connection Mr.
Nicholas caused considerable amusement by his story of the swift recurrence of meal-times in an English home. He estimated that the average Englishman ate more in one day than the average Canadian ate in twice that period.

The Old Countryers had made a very great impression on the Canadian delegates by the brevity of their speeches, and thirty to fifty minutes was considered quite sufficient for an address, and ten minutes for a speech at a banquet.
If anyone ventured beyond this time the guests just quietly turned their backs on him and drifted into conversation with someone.

Annexation Movement Finds Some Support on Vancouver Island—The Colonist Advocates Confederation as Offset to Propaganda

HARDLY had the sale of the Rupert territory become known, when a rumor spread through the colony that Seward proposed to annex British Columbia and Vancouver Island in liquidation of the Alaska claims. Though subsequently proved to be groundless, the rumor stirred up a great deal of feeling, and gave impetus to the annexation movement on the Island. Many people, says the Colonist, were lo-wed in expression of their preference for the Stars and Stripes. The sentiment was heard on every street corner, at the theatre, in business circles, and at social gatherings. The idea was growing and spreading daily that to become part of the "Universal Yankee Nation" was the colony's inevitable destiny.

It was not surprising that the influence of the home Government was alienating the affections of the colonists. It was natural for them to look across the sea and contrast their situation with that of the States and territories about them. There
they saw the Government fostering and encouraging the growth of all sections. Sitka had not been a week in its possession, and already an expedition was on its way from Washington to explore the country thoroughly and report on its possibilities
and resources. While in British Columbia there was no assistance given to exploration or development. Was it any wonder asks The Colonist, that the transfer of the colony to the United States would be hailed with satisfaction by many? It was a feeling greatly to be regretted, but too severe a test had been put on the loyalty of the people and their patience and means were exhausted.

While The Colonist refused to believe in the rumor, it
realized that the proposed transfer might advantageously
for the colony, especially Vancouver Island. It would make Victoria the half-way house between Sitka and San Francisco.
Its harbor would be the rendezvous of the whaling fleet. The growth of the port would speedily prosper.

Is annexation the only path? asks the Victoria newspaper.
In a stirring editorial on April 29. Many of the colonists were coming to regard the attempt to establish British institutions
on the Pacific Coast as a failure, and since no change could be

Project Provides for Full and Responsible Rule in Provinces, Limited Degree of Responsible Power in States, and Central Federal Government, With Bicameral Legislature

To Be Submitted to London Conference

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)
LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Chicago Daily News correspondent today obtained from London representatives of the Indian princes details of a project for Dominion Government which they are submitting to the forthcoming round-table conference. The sponsors claim that the scheme enjoys the support of the British Government and profess to believe that if the British Government should accept and try it out, the more radical Indian National Congress movement would call off the non-cooperation agitation to give such a form of Dominion status a fair trial.

However dubious that prospect appears at this hour of passionate strife, the project is significant evidence of the Nationalist spirit abroad in sections of India once famed for defence to British rule. It also demonstrates that the round table will have something to argue about, despite the absence of the

Moslems Inflamed Against Hindus By Marriage Laws

By CARROLL BINDER

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A Hindu wife may divorce a faithless husband in the State of Baroda under a new law just enacted.

This is the first modification of Hindu divorce regulations prescribed by Manu, a lawgiver supposed to have lived 3,000 years before Christ.

Its enactment is largely due to the progressive wife of the Maharajah. The Maharajah himself is tired of having much useless jewelry in the state treasury and is negotiating for the sale of $10,000,000 worth of surplus ornaments in Europe.

Other news from India indicates intensified feeling against the Sarda Child Marriage Prohibition Law, which would repeal a law previously mentioned. The London Times correspondent claims that the Moslem tribes along the frontier are inflamed because they consider that this law violates their religious liberty and that it was forced on them by the Hindus, whose power has always been jealously feared by the Moslems.

Old Hindu custom also encouraged child marriage, but reformers, stimulated by Katherine Mayo's book, "Mother India," legislated against it. The tribesmen want it for the protection of their daughters in case the father dies early and they also fear for their cultural inheritance. Therefore they demand that the British repeat it before halting the border warfare, which now causes grave anxiety to the Government.

DENIES INTENTION TO BOMB AREQUIPA

Commander Harold Grow Protests That Peru Decide His Fate Without Foreign Pressure

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 9.—The Arequipa newspaper Noticias today published an interview with Lieutenant Commander Harold B. Grow, United States Naval Reserve officer, who was head of the Peruvian air service under deposed President Leguia, denying he intended to bomb the city of Arequipa.

Grow, detained at Arequipa by the military Junta, headed by Lieutenant Colonel Sanchez Cerro, said he was flying to Arequipa to scatter a Government proclamation over the rebel troops when he was captured. He said he had one bomb which he intended to use to attract the attention of the rebels. He explained the bomb weighed only twenty-five pounds and would have been useless in a bombardment.

"I prefer that Peru decide my fate without foreign pressure," Grow was quoted as saying. "Regarding the diplomatic representative of my country not to interfere, because I believe I am not to blame, but am the victim of circumstances, will prevail. My sincerest wish is to continue developing aviation in Peru as I have done during the last seven years."

Melchett Predicts Adoption of Tariff Policy by Britain

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—A prediction that Great Britain will adopt a definite tariff policy, backed by the general mass of her people, was expressed here yesterday by Lord Melchett, British industrialist, in an address before the Bond Club of New York.

"I might say," he declared, "that the general mass of feeling in Great Britain today is in favor of some form of tariff on the importation of manufactured goods, and I think I could say that it is not really today the viewpoint of any particular party. I think it has become, as a matter of fact, pretty well the viewpoint of all sections of the people."

Twenty-Five Persons Hurt as Policeman's Horse Spreads Panic

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Twenty-five persons were hurt, one seriously, last night when a mounted policeman's runaway horse spread panic among thousands of amusement seekers lining the streets during Coney Island's biggest celebration, the Mardi Gras parade.

Frightened by a float, the horse reared, threw his rider and plunged wildly into the packed throng, knocking down dozens of persons and tramping on others.

The horse ran for three blocks and was finally stopped by several policemen. Two dozen persons were taken to hospitals, treated for cuts and bruises and then released.

MARSHAL YEN TAKES OFFICE AS PRESIDENT

Leader of New North China Government Denounces Chiang Kai-Shek

WELFARE OF PEOPLE IS PRINCIPAL AIM

By JAMES L. BUTTER

(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

PEIPING, Sept. 9.—While the beleaguered city took a holiday, Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan, commander of the anti-Nanking coalition, today officially assumed the chairmanship of the state council, tantamount to the presidency of the new North China Government, which anti-Nanking members of the Kuomintang proclaim to be the only legal Government in China.

Simultaneously the noted Kuomintang left and right wing leaders, Wang Chao-wei and Hsieh Chih, assumed memberships in the council, while representatives of the other nominees, namely, General Feng Yu-Hsiang and Li Tsung-jen, were present and the remaining two unconfirmed nominees, Tunc Shao-Yi and Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, were not represented.

OATH IS ADMINISTERED
The oath of office was administered at the former Imperial Hua Hien-Tang Palace, where the Manchurian warlord, General Chang Tso-lin, assumed the dictatorship three years ago. The simple ceremony included obeisance before a portrait of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen.

Marshal Yen thereafter, in a brief speech, announced adherence to the Kuomintang reorganization program with the people's welfare as the chief aim. He denounced General Chiang Kai-Shek, president of the Nanking Government, as the nation's common foe and the wreck of Kuomintang unity through corrupt personal manipulation of votes. President Chiang was also denounced for his failure to check the Communists and bandit menace in the Central and Southern provinces.

PLATFORM AND CANDIDATES
The platform of the new Government as well as the candidates for the eleven ministerial posts are expected to be announced shortly.

The ceremony was originally planned for 9 o'clock, thus giving a favored Chinese numerical sequence for the event, namely, the ninth hour of the ninth day of the ninth month of the nineteenth year of the Chinese Republic, but it was advanced an hour and a half owing to an apparently unfounded rumor that Nanking was aware of the program and intended to conduct an airplane bombing raid.

LORD DAWSON THINKS INDIA NOT YET READY FOR DOMINION STATUS

SPOKANE, Sept. 9.—Lord Dawson of Penn, personal physician to King George, with Lady Penn and their daughter, Lady Rosemary, visited Spokane last night en route from the High River, Alta., ranch of the Prince of Wales.

The noted physician commented on many subjects, including medical, relationships between Great Britain and the United States, and the Indian question.

"The people of Great Britain feel uniformly friendly toward the United States," he said. Regarding Indian independence, he said, he believed the Indians were not yet ready for Dominion status, such as that given Canada.

LABOR GOVERNMENT WILL FACE TEST IN SHIPLEY ELECTION

(Canadian Press Cable)
BRADFORD, England, Sept. 9.—William Mackinder, the Labor member for the Shipley division, is dead, and his death renders vacant a seat in the textile section of Yorkshire—a county which, perhaps, more than any other has experienced the rigors of a country-wide depression. In the Shipley election the Government will face a severe test of its administration.

The Government still possesses the confidence of the textile workers of the North.

It appears likely that the Shipley fight will be a four-cornered one with a left-wing Laborite or a Communist running.

KALAHARI DESERT IN SOUTH AFRICA PROVED TO BE GRASS LANDS

By ARTHUR BELL
(Copyright, 1930, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Sept. 9.—That the Kalahari Desert is not a desert is one of the most important facts established by the Verney-Lang expedition, which, after six months in Kalahari, has just returned here with many thousands of specimens for the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago.

The expedition found that the centre of Kalahari is a grassland inhabited by animals that have migrated from less hospitable regions. Kalahari, a sandy region in the heart of the black continent, reaches from 3,000 to 5,000 feet above sea level, lying between the Zambezi and Orange Rivers for a distance of some 800 miles.

RUSH OF THE CARDINALS
 In the midst of all this polo, yachting and tennis activity, the stretch run of the Cardinals in the National League can't be overlooked. Gabby Street's aroused and romping talent has been ripping the hide off every rival in sight and from almost nowhere they have moved up where the leading clubs can now feel hot breath upon their quivering necks.

Ten days ago the Athletics were wondering whether it was to be Cubs, Giants or Dodgers. Now the Athletics are fixing their gaze upon St. Louis, and this may be the final answer. While Cubs, Giants and Dodgers are being stumbling and sprawling all over the place, barely able to break even, the Cardinals have won twenty-two out of their last twenty-eight games and this wild upward dash has made them the featured team of the race.

Cubs and Giants now have just one chance against this Cardinal outfit. It is this—every National League team that has put on a big fight has followed the same with a divine act of equal proportions. The Cardinals have had the best run in the league and if they follow an old summer custom they will start feeling about the time they hit first place.

The Cardinals close out their Eastern road tour on September 23 and then jump home to finish against Pittsburgh. They have none the worst of the schedule and it might be mentioned that they are hitting the stretch with the speed they have shown, coming from behind, is always something to stop.

I wouldn't be surprised if some frantic sporting writer goes goofy and you read this—Rocks singled to center—McLarnin laid a chip shot dead and died Diego 2 up—Hitchcock tripped to right, scoring Lipton—Hack Wilson took the relay from Pedey and by hard, fast riding scored the second goal—Ruth roared off Lacey in a hard gallop—Singer carried Tilden to the fifth set as Horton Smith downed Harold Vanderbilt, 7 and 2—Gallant Fox beat Shamrock V by a nose in a hard drive down the stretch.

If Brooklyn gets to work on Chicago while New York and St. Louis are brooding yet there may be a pennant floating yet above the spirit figure of Wilbert Robinson. This

STUDIED PLAN OF EDUCATION IN MOTHERLAND

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe Returns From Successful Mission to England

GREAT BRITAIN HAS SCHOOL PROBLEM TOO

Pleased with the success of his mission, which included a general survey into educational matters in the United Kingdom, Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe has returned to Victoria after an extended visit in England. The Minister of Education was accompanied by Mrs. Hinchliffe and family and expressed his pleasure at being back again at the completion of a busy and eventful trip.

Mr. Hinchliffe found that school authorities in the Old Country were facing much the same problems that confront educationalists in Canada and was interested in the methods employed in the examination of these problems and the steps taken to improve conditions wherever possible.

Educational authorities in the United Kingdom at the moment are awaiting action on the report of the Hadow Commission, which recommended a number of changes, including that of increasing the age at which pupils leave school. The results of the commission are being very eagerly analyzed and some changes are likely to be made in Old Country schools as a result, Mr. Hinchliffe believes.

While in England the minister took occasion to inquire into the treatment received by Canadian teachers and university students who go to the Mother Country under the teachers' exchange plan, and has compiled some interesting data on this subject.

Mr. Hinchliffe paid special attention to recent developments and tendencies in the school systems of England and Scotland, and has brought back much material in connection for examination at greater leisure.

His visit to the United Kingdom had been instructive and productive of much that should prove of use to the province in the assembly of comparative data on school problems that occur.

Systems, Mr. Hinchliffe observed in conclusion.

BURNS CLUBS NEAR MAXIMUM

First Meeting of Season Sees Membership Approach Total of 500

The growing popularity of the Victoria Burns Club was attested last night at the opening of their 1930-31 season when thirty-five new members were nominated. John Hoie, the president, commented in this connection that the membership limit of five hundred would very soon be reached.

The Chamber of Commerce auditorium, where the meeting was held, was packed, and a programme of varied character was offered for the entertainment of the patrons. Of chief interest was the informal, but discursive address by Mr. Hoie, who described some of the highlights of his recent tour, and the humorous and serious, of a three weeks' trip which he took recently through the interior, principally in that part of the country made famous by the "Sixties".

In his 1,800-mile motor trip he visited Hope, Barkerville, Kamloops, the Okanagan country, Penticton, Princeton, the Cariboo country, Spence's Bridge, etc.

History was carried even farther back, however, the provincial architect, who brought up some of the early days. All through this, Mr. Hoie's narrative was interspersed with some of the most interesting and valuable material he had gathered during his wanderings.

Connected with the incidents connected with Simon Fraser's exploration. A very human element entered into Mr. Hoie's narrative when he told some of the most interesting evenings he had spent with old-timers gathered about country stores telling stories about the early days. All through this, Mr. Hoie's narrative was interspersed with some of the most interesting and valuable material he had gathered during his wanderings.

The literary committee of the Burns Club brought in an interesting report of new books by Scottish authors, this leading the convenor to comment that since the war there had been a wonderful renaissance in the Scottish literary product. Among the books mentioned were "The Heart of the Matter" by Frederick Niven, a Scot living in British Columbia. The members of the literary committee are Mrs. W. H. Niven, Mrs. Ross Napier and Mrs. R. B. McKinnon.

Mrs. R. B. McKinnon, an early pioneer of the Cariboo district, commenting that she was interested in the work in the interests of Macrae moved a hearty vote of thanks to the president and the who included J. Smith Patterson, vocalists, and George Bowden, Miss Ellen Bennett and Mr. Rhodes. Miss Foy and Miss Jewell, who gave some attractive dances as accompaniment.

A number of interesting Scottish books were donated to the club. The programme convenor is working on the programme for the ensuing winter months, and a number of excellent speakers are promised. The next meeting, it was announced, will be held on the second Tuesday in October.

The plane made an uninterrupted journey from Juneau, via Ketchikan and Orient. The party were John E. Winn, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Davis, Chandler Hicks, George Franklin, Mrs. E. A. Hayland and Pilot Ellis.

PRICE FOR SOCKEYE WILL BE PROTESTED

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 9.—A mass meeting of Fraser River fishermen will be held Saturday afternoon in New Westminster to protest against the price reduction on sockeye salmon made by the canners.

Richard Marshall, president of the B. C. Fishermen's Protective Association, stated Monday that the canners have cut the price per fish from 80 cents to 35 cents, and the fishermen are far from being satisfied.

While no intimation is given of a general strike, it is understood that some action will be taken. The fishermen claim that the quality of the late run sockeye is excellent, and there is no justification for the lower price.

The run of sockeye in the Fraser is reported to be improving. On Monday boats averaged thirty-five fish. There are 1,100 boats operating on the river, which is stated to be the largest number in recent years.

Discussion on Speech From Throne Quickly Completed in House

Opposition Leader Speaks for Two Hours on Election Promises—Premier Bennett Answers Briefly Regarding His Intentions

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—A single day sufficed for the House of Commons to dispose of the time-honored debate on the Address. Shortly after 10 o'clock this evening, the motion for an address to His Excellency in reply to the Speech from the Throne passed the House of Commons without division.

There were only five speakers in the debate, including Premier Bennett and Mr. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition.

The debate was cleared for the business of Parliament. Crowded galleries and chamberlain with interest today to the first passage at arms between Canada's present and former Prime Ministers. Mr. Mackenzie King held the floor for over two hours.

REPLY WAS BRIEF
 Approximately two minutes sufficed for the reply of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister.

"This Government proposes to go forward with the program which I have outlined," Mr. Bennett said. "It does not purpose to do this in one session or in two sessions, because no promises of that character were made. On the other hand, the promise I gave as to what would be done at this special session of Parliament this Government will endeavor to carry out. That is all I can usefully say on that point."

The Prime Minister stated that he would regard it "as a great privilege and high honor to represent my fellow citizens at the Imperial Conference." If circumstances prevented him from attending, however, it will be "because I regard my duty to Canada and to the Canadian people as one which transcends any other duties."

KING WARNS PREMIER
 The Opposition leader quoted extensively from speeches delivered by Premier Bennett during the last election campaign. Between the quotations Mr. King inserted comments of his own, did not hesitate to lengthen with pledges and promises which he claimed had been made by Mr. Bennett in order to obtain power. Dividing these into four groups, he referred to the first group as Mr. Bennett's "Magna Charta of promises" and his "cornucopia of pledges." Canada, he warned the Prime Minister, would expect these pledges to be carried out.

Then Mr. King had what he called "the supplementary list" of pledges which, he said, Mr. Bennett had made to various localities as he moved about the country in his campaign.

The Opposition leader had some strong criticism of the minister. Why, he asked, was there no Minister of Labor in the House of Commons during an emergency session called to deal with unemployment? Again he wanted to know the reason that Mr. Bennett had not appointed a Minister of Finance especially as there were to be tariff changes. He warned the Prime Minister against "the Mussolini touch."

Mr. King asserted that the people of Canada would not be satisfied with the employment by the Government of any "steam roller process" to complete the work of the session speedily.

"The people of Canada are not going to permit the Prime Minister to use the Imperial Conference as a smoke screen to hide behind in order to get his tariff proposals put through, irrespectively of what they may be," Mr. King declared.

The Opposition wished to make it possible for Mr. Bennett to make the Imperial Conference, Mr. King said, a "better method than the House might adjourn for a time while the Prime Minister was away to reassemble on his return."

THREE OTHERS SPOKE
 In later debate Robert Gardiner, leader of the U.F.A. group, expressed the hope that the Government would deal with unemployment by a better method than "kicking with the tariff." J. S. Wedgworth, Labor member for Winnipeg North Centre, stated that change in the customs tariff did not constitute a solution for unemployment, and Henri Bourassa, Independent, Quebec, and the final speaker of the debate, said that he was opposed to wholesale British preference.

The retiring president, Fred Landberg, who presided, was accorded a warm vote of thanks for the splendid disinterested enthusiasm which he had shown during his term of office, and a similar expression of appreciation was extended to the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Boulter.

According to a news item, a burglar broke into a boarding house and ate a hearty meal. That was no burglar—it was a magician.

PARISIENNE ON CANADIAN TOUR

Mlle. Gridiger, of Chateau Frontenac, Paris, Arrives in City

ESTABLISHING LIAISON

Canadians are discovering that they have the reputation in French hotels of liking an abundance of hot water in the bath, and a varied breakfast menu from which they can abstract fruit, cereals, toast, marmalade, bacon and eggs, pancakes and other things which the simple French "coffee and rolls" fails to satisfy.

Mlle. K. L. Gridiger, a charming young Parisienne, arrived in Victoria yesterday, representing the Chateau Frontenac, France's newest, most exclusive, and up-to-date hotel, just off the Champs Elysees, Paris. Here, in this luxurious hotel, which has been especially devised for Canadians visiting the French capital, all these essential luxuries demanded by travelers from the Dominion will be found. The manager, M. Metralier, very happily thought of sending Mlle. Gridiger to Canada this summer for the purpose of forming a liaison between the Canadian traveling public and his establishment. He could not have chosen a better emissary. Young, attractive, "with (to quote a contemporary) curly hair brushed back from a round and sweetly friendly face," she is full of enthusiasm for Canada and Canadians. She has made friends all along the line, and frankly confesses, now that her mission is practically at an end, that she is desolated at the thought of having to retrace her footsteps and return to Europe.

"Your people are so different from ours," she commented. "It is so easy to make friends. Everyone is so cordial, so simple and sincere and easy in manner. France is very conservative. It is very hard to get in touch with the French people; but here I found everyone, from Cabinet Ministers and heads of great railways and banks down, so friendly and helpful."

HOME TO CANADIANS
In her room at the Empress, Mlle. Gridiger yesterday chatted vivaciously about her experiences in Canada. Asked if she had learned much about Canadian tastes that would be of value in the cuisine or management of the Chateau Frontenac, she replied:

"You used to boast that your love for pretty girls was just a passing fancy. And yet you got married."

"Yes, I lingered too long in passing the last one."

Nanaimo Council

Nanaimo Local Council of Women held an executive meeting last evening when it was reported that Mrs. Tom Spencer would address the society's regular meeting in October on the League of Nations, instead of the September meeting, as originally planned. Mrs. Madge Grey, chairman of the music committee, reported that there would read one soloist only at the banquet to be held on September 18 in honor of the Provincial Council delegates.

Mrs. L. M. Volke and Mrs. B. Bulman, conveners of the banquet card drive, reported prizes donated by Mr. Oliver Eby, Mr. J. Grassick and Mr. John Doyle. Mrs. Foster reported that fancy favors would be given to each guest at the banquet.

Mrs. Annie Bandford donated the score cards. The following societies sent in their list of representatives who will attend the banquet: Women's Canadian Club, Mrs. T. W. Martindale, Mrs. Tom Spencer, Mrs. W. E. Ekins, Miss Blanche McDonald, Mrs. T. A. Barnard, Mrs. Jepson, Mrs. H. Hope and Miss Rogers; Bastion Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. A. Foster, Mrs. W. W. DISTINCTIVE DECORATION
It has been found that Canadiana abroad like careful service and artistic surroundings. Each suite at the Chateau Frontenac has been given distinctive decoration. This is different from the Canadian hotel. On the outside, in the surroundings, the Canadian hotel differs greatly, but once inside, one could hardly tell if one were in Winnipeg or Banff or somewhere else, the rooms are so alike.

French people do not like foreigners," she noted at another point. "They leave visitors very much to their own resources, and I have known a lady in Paris for six weeks without speaking to anyone. Our hotel tries to make its guests enjoy themselves."

She was greatly interested in French-Canadiana, and touched by their efforts to keep up the French language and French traditions. But she found it often impossible to understand their French, which was the language spoken in France hundreds of years ago, although when written it is practically the same as that of France today.

ENJOYABLE EVENING HELD BY MAGICIANS
The monthly meeting of Ring 10, I.B.M., was held on Monday night at the residence of Bro. William T. Thorne, at Oak Bay, and was exceptionally well attended. A quantity of business was transacted and, after refreshments had been served by the hostess, a very enjoyable display of magic was given by Mr. and Mrs. Thorne, arrayed in colorful Chinese costumes.

It was decided at the meeting to arrange visits to the Aged Men's Home, the Orphanage and the Soldiers' Home at later dates.

PRESENTATION IS MADE AT MEETING

Sanich Conservators Honor Mrs. Frank Osborn at Social Gathering

A social and dance featured the regular monthly meeting of the Sanich Central Conservative Association, in the Conservative rooms, Campbell Building, last evening. An executive meeting was held at 7 o'clock, under the presidency of W. O. Wallace, after which the regular business meeting was held, during the course of which the president reminded those present of the annual meeting of the association, to be held next month, and urged the ward executive to hold their annual meetings two weeks ahead, so that all wards may have sufficient representatives at the meeting, when officers will be elected.

In an interlude during the evening, occasion was taken by the president to announce that the association had decided to present Mrs. Frank Osborn with a gold brooch, to mark the esteem in which she is held by the members. The president, in a few complimentary remarks, said, as they all knew, Mrs. Osborn was one of their most unselfish workers and was ready to come forward and lend a hand in whatever work the association was engaged in; he had therefore pleasure in asking Mrs. Tolmie to make the presentation.

Mrs. Tolmie, in doing so, said how pleased she was, knowing how well Mrs. Osborn deserved this mark of appreciation by the association. In accepting the gift, Mrs. Osborn thanked the members and assured them of her readiness to help at all times.

Mrs. W. O. Wallace was also honored in the presentation of a bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Baker, on behalf of the association.

The remainder of the evening was in merriment and dancing. Mrs. A. H. Spurr rendered a song, accompanied by Mrs. C. V. Scriven, and songs by Mrs. Lefevre, accompanied by Miss E. Clarke; Mr. and Miss Jacklin played the accompaniment to the dancing. Refreshments were served during the evening, consisting of a delicious spread being Mesdames Holmes, Penhew, Bates and Lawrie.

Among the guests present were: Mrs. Dr. Tolmie, Hon. W. C. Shelly, M.P.P., Minister of Finance; J. W. Beatty, M.P.P.; Mr. Wendy Tolmie, Miss Cody Johnson and others.

WOMAN VICTIM OF ATTACK BY BEAR
BELLVILLE, Ont., Sept. 9.—For the first time in some years a bear attacked a human being in Hastings County. Mrs. Thomas Reeves, of Mayo township, victim of the attack, suffered lacerations about the body as the result. With her two children she was herding cattle in the brush when the bear suddenly appeared from behind some trees and struck her down.

The animal then started to carry the terrified woman off when the children screamed, bringing an answering whimper from the cub, at the sound of which the bear dropped her human burden to hasten to her offspring.

Clubs and Societies

Nanaimo Council

Nanaimo Local Council of Women held an executive meeting last evening when it was reported that Mrs. Tom Spencer would address the society's regular meeting in October on the League of Nations, instead of the September meeting, as originally planned. Mrs. Madge Grey, chairman of the music committee, reported that there would read one soloist only at the banquet to be held on September 18 in honor of the Provincial Council delegates.

Mrs. L. M. Volke and Mrs. B. Bulman, conveners of the banquet card drive, reported prizes donated by Mr. Oliver Eby, Mr. J. Grassick and Mr. John Doyle. Mrs. Foster reported that fancy favors would be given to each guest at the banquet.

Mrs. Annie Bandford donated the score cards. The following societies sent in their list of representatives who will attend the banquet: Women's Canadian Club, Mrs. T. W. Martindale, Mrs. Tom Spencer, Mrs. W. E. Ekins, Miss Blanche McDonald, Mrs. T. A. Barnard, Mrs. Jepson, Mrs. H. Hope and Miss Rogers; Bastion Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. A. Foster, Mrs. W. W. DISTINCTIVE DECORATION
It has been found that Canadiana abroad like careful service and artistic surroundings. Each suite at the Chateau Frontenac has been given distinctive decoration. This is different from the Canadian hotel. On the outside, in the surroundings, the Canadian hotel differs greatly, but once inside, one could hardly tell if one were in Winnipeg or Banff or somewhere else, the rooms are so alike.

French people do not like foreigners," she noted at another point. "They leave visitors very much to their own resources, and I have known a lady in Paris for six weeks without speaking to anyone. Our hotel tries to make its guests enjoy themselves."

She was greatly interested in French-Canadiana, and touched by their efforts to keep up the French language and French traditions. But she found it often impossible to understand their French, which was the language spoken in France hundreds of years ago, although when written it is practically the same as that of France today.

The monthly meeting of Ring 10, I.B.M., was held on Monday night at the residence of Bro. William T. Thorne, at Oak Bay, and was exceptionally well attended. A quantity of business was transacted and, after refreshments had been served by the hostess, a very enjoyable display of magic was given by Mr. and Mrs. Thorne, arrayed in colorful Chinese costumes.

It was decided at the meeting to arrange visits to the Aged Men's Home, the Orphanage and the Soldiers' Home at later dates.

"You used to boast that your love for pretty girls was just a passing fancy. And yet you got married."

"Yes, I lingered too long in passing the last one."

CHAPTER XXXVII

The Chinaman who had been with Chang at the time of Snail's previous visit to the little restaurant, came forward from the darkness and slipped an electric torch into his pocket as he did so.

Grinning evilly he went over to the recumbent man, and with long, skinny fingers, clutched him by the throat until the face became purple and the half-conscious victim gasped for mercy.

No word escaped from the Chinaman. His fingers squeezed until the cries for mercy ceased, then he flung the sufferer down and left the house through a back window.

A few moments later the assassin joined Foxey in a waiting motor car, and without exchanging words, they sped away into the night.

Nearly two hours afterwards, Jasper Snail—more dead than alive—struggled to his feet. The reading lamp was still burning, and his papers were as he had left them. Perhaps he had had a horrible dream. He felt his neck, and it was bruised and sore. . . . He remembered.

Shuddering and shaking horribly, he went down to the front window and watched the road leading to the town. Why he kept his vigil he did not dare tell himself, but he knew only too well.

The first faint streaks of dawn were showing when, still weak and ill, he saw the headlights of two motor cars coming rapidly in the direction of the house. His heart thumped as though it would burst loose, but he waited to make sure. At the entrance of the drive the cars slowed up, and as they turned through the great iron gates, Jasper Snail, with a cry like a trapped animal, ran back along the corridor, half fell or scrambled down the staircase, and without stopping for a hat or anything else, opened the back door with feverish haste, banged it shut behind him, and dashed across the garden to the wooded hill just beyond.

From his shelter he paused for breath and looked through the trees. He saw one of the cars circle the house, and four policemen got out to watch the rear while the others entered from the front.

A sardonic grin distorted the already agonized features of the fugitive.

"Give 'em a run for their money!" he muttered with a blasphemous expletive.

He pushed on down the valley on the other side, where the railway entered the tunnel. The entrance yawned cavernously, and from its Stygian darkness came a great roar. Jasper Snail heard it with a shudder, and he looked fearfully over his shoulder as though at some unseen horror.

"I'm going," he whispered. "I'm going, I say." His voice rose to a shrill crescendo. He clutched his throat. "Don't Chang, don't!" he shrieked. "Take your fingers off! You're—your choking me! I'll go, yes, I'll go!"

In unreasoning terror he ran up the line into the tunnel just as the London express emerged in a cloud of steam and smoke.

Led by Sergeant Findon, the police soon found that Jasper Snail was not in the house. The still-burning reading lamp and the scattered papers, showed that he had recently vacated one of the upper rooms, and some of the constables were soon searching the garden for signs of his escape.

The day was not sufficiently advanced to see very plainly, but with the help of an electric torch one of the policemen directed attention to footmarks on the soil leading from the back door.

"This is the way he's gone," he called, and without much difficulty they followed the track which led them to the dilapidated fence dividing the garden from the foot of the hill. There, in the dead leaves and tangled roots the trail was lost, and the party divided to search the small plantation.

Sergeant Findon, who had now joined the party, was scanning the top of the hill when he heard the London express scorch as it came out of the tunnel. As it came, the brakes were rapidly applied, and with a loud grinding noise and much screeching steam, the train was stopped about a hundred yards beyond.

He saw the guard run to the gestulating engine-driver and heads appear at the opened carriage windows, then the sergeant himself ran as fast as he dared down the slope to the railway line.

Just inside the mouth of the tunnel, Police Sergeant Findon and the guard of the train saw a dreadful heap lying in the permanent way.

It was the mangled and mutilated body of Jasper Snail.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Tony Ardon, Diana, and Mrs. Stevens were horrified to hear from Sergeant Findon of the fate of Jasper Snail.

It was just after breakfast when the officer called, and he was proud that he had been the first to congratulate Tony on his return.

"The rest will be an easy matter now," he said. "I left word for the sale to be cancelled."

Later the same morning Tony and Diana—with Mrs. Stevens—took formal possession of Ardon Hall. They had not been there long before William Beeding arrived with a man unknown to the returned wanderer.

"I'm glad to see you Beeding!" cried Tony, shaking hands in his exuberance with his father's old butler. "I hope you've called to say you are coming back, sir."

"I have indeed, sir. If you'll have me," was the reply. "It seems like coming home again, sir."

"And so it will be! You haven't introduced me to your friend."

"This is Mr. Medders, sir—Richard."

"Dick, if you'll pardon me, sir," interposed Mr. Medders. "I didn't want to come, but my—er—colleague, as you might say, wouldn't take no refusal."

"Why, Tony darling!" cried Diana bursting into the room with her aunt, "this is the gentleman who saved me when I was kidnapped! How are you Mr. Medders?"

"Nicely, thank you—er—madam."

Tony could not say much. He gripped the hand of the modest and simple expression of the man who was more eloquent than any of his friends.

"But for you, Mr. Medders," he said, "my wife would have been a shivering wreck. I should have been a shivering wreck."

"That's all right," said Dick, "that's all right. It's lucky for me that the gang didn't get me. I was bluffing 'em."

"It would never have been discovered, sir," interposed Beeding. "If Mr. Medders hadn't been with you, the gang would have been with you."

"That's all right," said Dick, "that's all right. It's lucky for me that the gang didn't get me. I was bluffing 'em."

"Of course, really," explained Dick diffidently, "it was when I went down to Limeus to make an 'an' found there was no Orient Works that I began to suspect a perfidy. Y'see, I used to live there when I was a boy and I know it pretty well."

"That was splendid of you," said Tony, "and I shall never forget a Beeding is going to ask all the servants to come back, and if you would like to stay here with them for a time until we get the place overhauled, we'll see what you would like us to do for you when we come back."

"You're very good, guv'nor," began Dick, "but—"

"Now, not another word," laughed Tony. "We are going away for about a month while the house is being done up, and during the time you may consider yourself on the staff."

When Dick Medders had gone to inspect his new quarters, Beeding (the former butler) drew from his pocket a document that appeared to be a mass of pasted pieces.

"I found this," he began, opening it out flat, "torn in little bits behind a laurel bush in the garden under Mr. Snail's window."

Tony and Diana looked at the document with interest.

"Dear old dad!" the former said reverently. "I knew he was all right at heart."

"Of course, of course," raved out that Sir James died intestate, and I thought that this might perhaps be useful in case you should suddenly come back."

"Quite right, Beeding, quite right! It is not necessary now, but nobody could say when it might have been."

A day or two after the inquest on Jasper Snail the Cornish Riviera express carried Tony and Diana away to that delightful coast for a long-deferred honeymoon.

Under the benign influence of perfect happiness and ideal weather, Tony found his memory both for recent and earlier events completely restored.

Sitting on a headland exchanging reminiscences, the grateful young wife suggested that they should pay a visit to Dan Tremaris and see if they could help him in any way.

"It will have to be done very tactfully," said Tony. "Although poor, he is proud of the hospitable traditions of the fisherfolk."

The old man could hardly believe his eyes when Tony said who he was.

"Why, Jack!" he cried. "I thought you were dead, drowned in the storm that nearly wrecked the old boat. Poor Mary blamed herself for it, because she said if she hadn't gone with us you would never have had to save her life."

"Oh, that's nonsense!" replied Tony. "Mary is a brick and she treated me like her own brother. Is she here?"

"No, she got married last week, and has gone up to London with her husband for a holiday."

"Good luck to her! We'll send her a wedding present when she gets back. I've been telling my wife all about my adventures," went on Tony smiling at Diana, "and she and I wondered if you would accept a new boat from us as a keepsake."

"A new boat!" The old fisherman's eyes were wide with wonder. "Yes," laughed Tony, "an addition to the fleet."

"I don't know what to say, I'm sure. It would cost a deal of money. Will the lady let me call it after her if I accept?"

"Gladly!" cried Diana. "I'd love to have it named after her."

Unbidden tears stood in the eyes of Dan Tremaris as he held the girl's small hand in his horny palm. "You are too generous," he murmured, "and it doesn't seem right to take advantage of it, but there is nothing I would like better."

The old Morning Star is good for a few years yet, but she needs a lot of patching."

Tony was fortunate in finding a new fishing smack that had just left the stocks and was equipped with all modern appliances. Before their honeymoon was over they returned to the village, and the happy young wife formally christened the boat "Diana."

When they went back home to Ashbridge, Diana suggested that Dick Medders might be able to tell them where to find the gipsies.

Tony had expressed a desire to reward Bill Smith for his kindness to him when he was washed up on the second time.

Medders was able to give the required information, and the old gipsy and his wife were the grateful recipients of a fat cheque the next day.

During the young people's absence the butler, William Beeding, had re-engaged all the former staff, and the old servants were very glad to return. Knowing the household as they did, the domestic wheels worked smoothly, and when Tony and Diana came home Ardon Hall had been turned inside out, thoroughly cleaned, overhauled and redecorated.

Dick Medders pleaded to be allowed to disintegrate the rooms formerly occupied by Jasper Snail, and when he had finished all trace of that evil presence had vanished.

The evening sun was caressing the heads of the hills before retiring to his bed of purple clouds when Tony Ardon and his young wife stood at one of the western windows of the Hall drinking in the beauty of the scene.

"Look at the dear old cottage, darling," said Tony, "the sun seems to make it glow."

"Yes," murmured the happy bride. "I believe it also is glad that we're home at last."

Tony Ardon's eyes strayed past the beloved cottage, past the golden hills to the expanse of sky, where a twinkling star was just appearing.

It reminded him of the sea with a such he had been so strangely delighted.

"A penny for your thoughts," laughed Diana, "are they fishing again with old Tremaris?"

"No darling," he replied as he kissed her tenderly. "I was thanking God that we had steered safely past all the rocks and reached home at last on the full tide."

Burgess Bedtime Stories

The Lost Thimble

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

No matter how the guilty tries, He's bound to show it in his eyes. —Old Mother Nature.

Jim Crow had as usual gone down to the cornfield riding on the shoulder of Farmer Brown's Boy. Mother Brown had watched them go. She had chuckled as she heard Jim Crow talking crow-talk to his master as they disappeared.

"That black scamp talks just as if he thought we understood all he said," said Mother Brown to herself. "I am glad that he likes to go down to the cornfield. He does a lot of good down there by hunting out white grubs and cutworms, and it keeps him out of mischief up here."

This was a busy day for Mother Brown. She had a lot of sewing to do. She sat by an open window sewing, and as she sewed she hummed. For a long time she worked. Then she had to go out in the kitchen for something. She laid her work down, put her thumb on the window sill and left the room. She was gone only a couple of minutes. When she returned her thimble was missing. Yes, sir, her thimble was missing. She didn't find it there.

By this time Mother Brown had stopped humming. She was anxious to finish her sewing. It was very annoying to have lost the thimble. Moreover, she was puzzled. She couldn't understand how she could have lost it.

"I must have been careless," said she. "When I got up in a hurry I must have dropped it and it rolled somewhere. Well, I can't stop to hunt for it now. I must have another old thimble around somewhere and I'll use that."

Mother Brown rummaged around in her workbasket and finally found a battered old thimble that would do. Then she resumed her sewing. As she worked she heard the voice of Jim Crow down in the cornfield. You see, the wind was just right and Jim Crow's voice carries a long distance. "If that black scamp was up here, I should suspect him of knowing something about that thimble," thought Mother Brown. "But I saw him go down in the cornfield and he is still there. So I must have dropped the thimble somewhere."

She gave the matter no further thought, feeling sure that sooner or later the thimble would be found. She knew it couldn't have gone very far. Presently she went out to the kitchen to get dinner. Then she blew the horn which was the signal to Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy that dinner was ready. Jim Crow understood that signal just as well as the others did. He stopped hunting for white grubs and he rode up the Long Lane and into the farmyard.

Mother Brown was standing in the doorway as Farmer Brown's Boy approached with Jim Crow on his shoulder. Instead of riding into the house, as usual, Jim Crow flew up in a tree. Mother Brown noticed this. "Caw, caw!" said Jim Crow, as if he understood, which, of course, he didn't. And all the time he kept his sharp eyes on Mother Brown. Yes, sir, he kept his sharp eyes on Mother Brown, quite as if he expected her to do something to him. But Mother Brown didn't notice it and neither did Farmer Brown's Boy. So after a while Jim Crow flew down and came into the house and listened just as if he understood while Mother Brown told about the missing thimble.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT RACE TIGHTENS

Three Games Now Separating Four Leaders in Chase

Robins Defeat Cubs and Giants Nose Out Cards in Crucial Fixtures—Athletics, Senators and Yankees Win

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Two games yesterday, which involved the four National League contenders brought greater tension to the pennant race. As Brooklyn downed the league-leading Chicago Cubs and the New York Giants defeated St. Louis, the four teams which are battling for the flag were left within a space of three games. The Cubs held their lead of two and a half games over St. Louis, but Brooklyn Robins gained a virtual tie with the Cards, the same distance behind. Brooklyn is only one point behind St. Louis. The Giants placed themselves only half a game behind the second-place rivals as they gained a full game on the two leaders. Brooklyn picked up as much ground in the struggle by its triumph.

The German word "Frau"—The word "frau" (wife) was spelled in medieval German "frowe." The two syllables composing it mean "joy" and "pain," and gave rise to many interesting conclusions as to its etymology.

The Tree With Horns—These "tree-antlers" are located in Yosemite Valley, California, in the stump of a 250-year-old Madrona tree. Although it is not known exactly how these antlers have grown into the wood, it is supposed that they were placed between the limbs of the tree about a hundred years ago, the limbs having grown around them.

U.S. Cup Defender Noted for Ability To Go to Windward

Yachting Expert Says Enterprise Fast Boat in Heavy Weather—To Discuss Shamrock V in Next Article

James B. Connolly, famous writer of stories on ships and the sea, will cover the International Yacht Cup Races for The Colonist. This is the first of three columns discussing the competing yachts, Enterprise and Shamrock V, and the historic event in general.

By JAMES B. CONNOLLY
(Copyright by the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service.)

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 9.—Without having to strain my memory I can recall the advent of the knockabout on New England's shores. Any alongshore boy knows what a knockabout is; but (in case you live inland) it is a single sticker with no bowsprit, a low hull with no rail.

Those old knockabouts weren't much good for cruising outside a harbor, having no lounging space on deck and scant quarters, if any at all, below; but they were safe boats, having plenty of ballast and all of it outboard, so that a fellow could roll them down in a breeze of wind till their keels showed without fear of their capsizing.

Looking at a group of cup racers in Newport Harbor I could think of no better phrase to describe them than glorified knockabouts. Those of years ago were little craft, fifteen to twenty feet long; whereas these are big, eighty-foot water line and more than 120 feet over, but knockabouts they are with no bowsprit, low hull with no rail, all sail inboard and all ballast outboard.

EXPENSIVE GAME
Rich folk, when they discovered what wonderful play boats the old knockabouts were, took to building them of most expensive materials; and so are these cup craft expensively built—$3,000 per water line foot for the hull alone, and $10,000 each.

One of the most expensive materials, too, what with sails costing $35,000 a suit, and masts costing $65,000 each.

Many knockabouts of the old days were beautiful boats, and these cup racers are beautiful boats—no more beautiful craft were ever launched.

It is a pity that the hull looks so dry beneath her enormous mast. When the owner of the old America, original United States cup winner, first challenged the world, he stipulated that not less than a seven-knot breeze be blowing; a fellow looks up at that 168-foot mast on that twenty-two-foot-wide Enterprise and he wonders if her owners don't feel like stipulating that no more than a seven-knot breeze be blowing.

MAST MAY BE PROBLEM
Captain Dick Brown, of the old America, would certainly wrinkle up his nose at sight of that mast. It is of metal, not wood, and it is hollow, and down through the hollow the breeze would lead to below decks.

The idea of putting halyards under cover is to reduce wind resistance. A few extra ropes blowing in the breeze would not matter, so we may think; but a cup race was once lost by a few seconds, another was a dead heat; and halyards flying loosely in the wind may mean a few seconds and so the winning or losing of a race.

They are getting this yacht racing game down pretty fine. The under sides of the deck planks of the Enterprise are also hollowed out, this to save weight. The less weight the better for racing craft.

To save further weight the entire hold of the Enterprise is left empty. Bunks for the men? The cabins for owners and officers? No! No such foolish burdens. Metal frames and beams to hold her hull together, a pair of winches to latten sheets and halyards are all you will see in the great space below decks.

Starting Burgess, designer of the Enterprise, is a great one for trying out new gadgets for racing craft. Being an aviator in his earlier years, he is also alert to water resistance; all yacht designers are, of course.

He is a Harvard man, and some years ago he spent hours at a time for weeks on end in experiments and discussions with Ed Brown, Harvard rowing coach, in an effort to reduce the wind and water resistance of his college rowing shells to a minimum, doing this without pay.

MAIN BOOM UNIQUE
Burgess has rigged the Enterprise with a main boom of which the like was never before put aboard a sailing craft. The usual boom for a vessel of her tonnage would be twelve inches in diameter, and, of course, as every sailorman knows, a main boom should be round, solid, made of wood. But this Enterprise boom is of metal, and triangular shaped, and the up-facing flat top of it is four feet wide.

Why the extra width, not to speak of the triangular shape? Well, the wide top has tracks across it to allow the mainsail to take a perfect aerodynamic curve at all times, if you know what that means. If you don't, drop a line to Burgess and he will send you a pamphlet explaining it in detail.

To get to the human equation in this racing game: Harold Vanderbilt, biggest owner of the Enterprise, is also her sailing master. All cup defenders rate professional skippers, but they have nothing to do these days with the racing of the boats. An amateur sailor group known as the after guard attends to that now. One steers, another comes her sails, another holds the stop watch for the start, another charts her course, and so on, or something like that. In the old days the professional skipper had the whole say, but not now.

Mr. Vanderbilt's reputation is that of a most skillful sailing master of big yachts, and none need fear to hear said of him what was said of an owner in an older day. A cup defender lost out in one of her races, and the alibi of her professional skipper was: "How'd we happen to lose? I let the owner have too much to say. But never again, boy never again."

What are the Enterprise's chances against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock? Looking at her in a tuning-up spin, she seems to slip through the water when there is any all moving, but that means nothing much. They all sail well alone.

What I prefer to bank on is her reputation for going to windward. She can go to windward, they say, and the boat that goes best to windward has a big edge always.

Tomorrow—Mr. Connolly will give his impressions of the British challenger, Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V.

Gene Sarazen Given Hard Battle in Pro Golfers' Tournament

Stocky New Yorker Wins on Last Green From Outsider—H. Smith, Diegel, Farrell, Cooper, Armour and Espinosa Survive First Rounds

FLUSHING, N.Y., Sept. 9.—The Professional Golfers' Association championship, the annual battle of the pros, almost lost its host today in the very first round. Gene Sarazen, home pro, was brought to the thirty-sixth hole by Charles Schneider, young Philadelphia pro. Sarazen then sent a long brassie to the thirty-fourth green and dropped an eight-foot put for a birdie four, enough to win the hole and, as it turned out, the match.

Horton Smith, another favorite, was one down to Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., with only six holes left to play, but the half-don was enough for the tall Missourian. The margin was 2 and 1.

DIEGEL ADVANCES
Leo Diegel, the defending champion, won with little effort from Henry Cluel, young pro.

Results today:
Al Watrous, Detroit, defeated Eric Seavall, Culver City, Cal., 3 and 1.

Charles Lacey, Philadelphia, defeated Charles Quest, Pontiac, Mich., 3 and 2.

Harold Samson, Burlingame, Cal., defeated Clarence Ershman, Philadelphia, 4 and 3.

Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mexico, defeated Henry Cluel, Stratford, Conn., 8 and 7.

Tommy Armour, Detroit, defeated Dave Hackney, Lowell, Mass., 11 and 10.

Bob Shave, Cleveland, defeated Joseph Kenney, Sylvania, Ohio, 1 up.

Penmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio, defeated Joe Frank, Kenosha, Wis., 8 and 6.

Johnny Farrell, New York, defeated Norman Smith, Yakima, Wash., 7 and 5.

Gene Sarazen, New York, defeated Charles Schneider, Philadelphia, 1 up.

Bob Crowley, Hamerhill, defeated Whiffey Cox, Brooklyn, 4 and 3.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, defeated Bill Melhorn, Pensacola, Fla., 2 and 1.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, defeated Mark Fry, Oakland, Cal., 2 and 1.

Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia, defeated Gunnard Johnson, St. Paul, 8 and 7.

FIREMEN EVEN UP
B.C. BALL SERIES
Vancouver Champs Defeat Trapp 7 to 2—Peggy Duff Has Leg Fractured

NEW WESTMINSTER, Sept. 9.—With "Robbo" Robinson in an erratic mood, Vancouver firemen took advantage of his wildness to triumph over Trapp Hawks to the tune of 7 to 2 in the second game of the British Columbia baseball championship series at Queen's Park tonight. The series is now tied at one game each, and the third game will take place at Athletic Park, Vancouver, Wednesday evening.

Robinson was good and bad by turns. He struck out eight of the invading extinguishers, but offset the good work by issuing an equal number of free passes to first, several times filling the bases on walks.

"Lefty" Kaye was on the mound for the firemen and hurled a fair game, allowing seven hits, but giving no runs on base hits.

An unfortunate accident occurred during the game when "Peggy" Duff, star right fielder of the firemen, suffered a fractured leg while sliding into the plate.

MUSIC DIRECTOR OF C.P.R. HERE

Harold Eustace Key Spends Day in City at Close of Banquet Season

Harold Eustace Key, director of music for the Canadian Pacific Railway, was a visitor in the city yesterday, and snatched a little time between official duties to roam around the Empress Hotel gardens, which he finds a perpetual delight. Together with his opera company Mr. Key has spent an arduous two months at Banff arranging and providing programmes for the thousands of summer tourists. Strenuous as the undertaking was, it proved an enormous success, and compliments and congratulations poured in from all quarters upon the director and his artists.

Mr. Key said yesterday that the C.P.R. was not at present contemplating any festivals either here or in Vancouver this winter. But the customary Christmas pageant, with the bringing in of the Yule log and the board's head procession, will take place at the Empress as usual, a fact which will delight all Empress Hotel patrons.

The next festival is to be the French-Canadian festival at Quebec, October 16-18. At present Mr. Key is busy with preparations for the Friday broadcast series, the first to be this week from Vancouver, when the Vancouver Hotel orchestra will play, with soloists also by Amy Fleming, of New Westminster, who has been singing at Banff and Lake Louise, and numbers by the D.O.K. Quartette. The following Friday's broadcast will be from the Royal Alexandra Hotel, Winnipeg.

Mr. Key left last night for Vancouver.

Miss Nixon is another of the Hollywood stars who use Kissproof—the natural, lasting lipstick. At all toilet counters.

HON. R. R. BRUCE INSPECTS FAIR AT COBBLE HILL

Quality of Exhibits Is High and Number of Entries
Is Large

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR WILL PRESENT SILVER CUP

COBBLE HILL, Sept. 7.—The annual Fall fair, held here on Saturday, was an unqualified success, both from the point of view of the increased number of entries in all classes and the exceptionally fine quality of the exhibits.

During the afternoon the Lieutenant-Governor, accompanied by Miss McKenzie and Sir Benjamin Robertson, visited the show. After a thorough examination of all classes His Honor presented to Miss Jean Taggart the medal he had awarded for the best collection of wild flowers. His Honor expressed himself as being greatly pleased with the interest shown in this competition and announced his intention of presenting a silver cup next year for the best collection of foliage from native trees, open to the children of the district.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce Cup for the best cow in the show was awarded to a particularly fine animal entered by Mr. S. D. Dougan. Messrs. Wace and Reason secured the special prize of $25 in the poultry section.

Credit for the management of the fair is mainly due to Mr. R. B. Moulton, the new secretary, who carried out his duties in a most efficient and untiring manner.

MONTHLY MEETING OF LEGION BRANCH HELD

Cowichan Ex-Servicemen Discuss Unemployment—Latter Day Suggested for Naval Visit

DUNCAN, Sept. 9.—The regular monthly meeting of Cowichan branch of the Canadian Legion was held in the K.E. Hall on Monday evening. Attendance was very good. It speaks well for the prestige that this branch has obtained in the district that hardly a meeting goes by when applications for membership are not received. Seven new members were enrolled on Monday.

Admiral Nugent reported the very successful entertainment provided men of H.M.S. Despatch and H.M.S. Dauntless by the close co-operation of the city, the municipality and the legion. Special thanks were due to the ladies of the W.A. for providing supper for the men, and to the Boy Scouts for preparing the bandstand and seats in the Agricultural Hall grounds. On motion of Captain J. D. Groves, a very hearty vote of thanks was given the entertainment committee, to include Miss Monk, Messrs. Henderson and Dennis and the W.A.

DATE OF ANNUAL VISIT

A. J. Castle suggested that it would solve the entertainment problem if the annual visit of the battle-ship could be arranged for the first Monday in September. On that day the legion holds its Labor Day sports and dance. The sailors would add color and gaiety at the sports, and no additional work would be entailed in providing supper for them. The suggestion was enthusiastically received, and Admiral Nugent was asked to take up the matter.

All accounts from tradesmen not being in, only interim reports could be made by the chairman of the sports committee and the chairman of the dance committee. From these reports the sports had been a great success. Comrade Jarvis wished to thank Comrades Douglas, Saunders, and many others who had so willingly helped him, and also to the Boy Scouts, who had looked after the sideshow under supervision of Comrade Hitchcock. President Duncan also remarked upon the outstanding success of the dance. Comrade Castle's selection of the orchestra through Comrade Mowbray was the president said, thoroughly justified.

CLUB COMMITTEE

For the club committee, Comrade Castle outlined the position. Great strides had been made and further action was only delayed through lack of funds. The committee was not yet ready to grant a license, but had money cheerfully returned upon making a written application. Comrade Goddard complimented the committee on the progress that had been made in so short a time, and Comrade Groves moved that the interim report of the committee be adopted and their action be endorsed. This was unanimously agreed upon.

Comrade Knox reported visits to hospital and Cowichan district where he had been in the relief committee. He also reported that Comrade Holman was very sick in Shaughnessy Hospital. The ultimate result of the discussion was that instructions were given to the secretary to write pointing out that some action should be taken at once upon the representations.

Comrade Williams Freeman asked the meeting's opinion as to whether anybody would be open to criticism if employment was offered at wages below the recognized standard rate by any whose income was limited and who really desired to help the unemployed. Comrade Hampton said that men mostly earn what they get, but if a man out of work accepted a low wage that was entirely his own business. Comrade Haslam suggested that under the circumstances it would be far more satisfactory to both if a contract was arranged between the Chamber of Commerce in its campaign for boosting Cowichan products and in its efforts to have a market and selling agency. Comrade Sullivan, chairman of the pensions committee, said he was now prepared to assist applicants who wished to apply under the new Pension Act.

A new entertainment committee was appointed, Comrade O. W. Brookbank being elected chairman.

SCHOOL ISSUE ARISES IN NORTH COWICHAN

Duncan City Council Does Not Approve of Amendments Proposed by Rural Municipality

DUNCAN, Sept. 9.—At last night's meeting of the city council, Mayor H. F. Prevost and City Clerk James Greig were named as delegates to attend the annual Municipal Convention in Kelowna, next month. The council decided to co-operate with the Duncan Chamber of Commerce in encouraging the formation of a farmers' market in Duncan. It is proposed to erect market stalls on Trunk Road, and the council will tarriate the roadway here to its full width, and also construct a sidewalk in front of the stalls.

The council will take up with the Duncan Utilities the matter of an improved water supply on Hospital Hill.

The council went into committee of the whole to consider differences of opinion which have arisen with the North Cowichan Council in connection with the North Cowichan School Act. The following report was unanimously adopted:

"That the clerk be instructed to again write to the North Cowichan Council pointing out that the city solicitor did not approve of the amendments as revised by them, and requesting that they give this question further consideration."

Several months ago a letter of similar purport was "received and filed" by North Cowichan. Unless an agreement is reached at an early date, there is little doubt that the city will give notice before the close of the year, of their intention of terminating the agreement under which the Duncan Consolidated School Board exists and operates. This could not take effect until the close of 1931, as either council must give twelve months' notice of their intention to terminate the agreement from the end of the calendar year.

First Young Doctor: "How's your practice?"

Second Y.D.: "In the morning hardly anyone comes, and in the afternoon the rush falls off a bit."
